D.C. Housewife Complains

Wood Deck Blots Out Her View . . .

THIS IS Mrs. Maria Boyling's view from her living room window since neighbors built an elevated deck several months ago. City says deck meets all requirements of building code although it was allegedly built without usual permit and without permission of Westlake Subdivisions Improvement Association board of directors.

Mrs. Maria Boyling is a small, slight housewife who only wanted to live quietly in her home at 793 Beechwood Drive in Daly City.

From out of her living room window she had a sweeping view of the city and San Francisco beyond. The view is what sold her and her husband, Walter, on buying the house.

But less than three months after she moved in her neighbors, the Robert Boyettes, residing at 797 Beechwood Ave., began building an elevated wooden deck.

The deck not only is level with the living room window of the Boyling home, it extends out past the house blotting out the city view and leaving the now-furious Mrs. Boyling with only a pine tree to stare at.

She claims since the deck was built — without a city building permit or approval of the powerful Westlake Subdivisions Improvement Association — her home has devalued in price by some $3,000.

Her health is also impaired, Mrs. Boyling told the city council Monday night in asking them, "as the leaders of this community," to take a firm stand and "make (Boyette) modify or whatever else is necessary, to remove the deck from in front of my window."

According to records, Boyette did not get the necessary approval to build the deck.

When the matter came to the attention of city attorney Albert Polonsky he immediately sought recourse in the courts, declaring the deck "a nusiance." He demanded Boyette get a building permit.

Finally, after months of legal moves on the issue, the court ordered Boyette to obtain a permit or demolish the deck. He got the permit.

But the deck was still there, blocking Mrs. Boyling's view.

City Engineer Dave Macabee told the council he had to approve the deck because it met all requirements set forth by the city's building code.

Polonsky and Macabee said they sent a team of inspectors out to look at the deck and it was all right, codewise.

Nothing was done, in punitive terms, to Boyette.

No reimbursement to the city for the time and money expended in having Polonsky force compliance with regulations, or for failure to comply with these rules.

Joseph Conrad, of 791 Beechwood, in a brief written statement to the council in support of Mrs. Boyling, said he had filed plans for a similar project at his home and was turned down by the WSIA.

According to the bylaws of the WSIA (sec. 12) all plans for additions, alterations, fences, walls and permanent structural additions or changes — including the painting of a home — must be approved first by the Architectural Committee of the WSIA.

The reason for this, according to the bylaws, is to have "conformity and harmony of design and as not interfering with the reasonable enjoyment of any other lot or plot . . . "

Section nine of the same bylaws primarily concern fences and clothes poles "or other en-

Audit Report Raps the JESD

By FRANK LaPIERRE

The silence that has thus far greeted the special state audit report of the Jefferson Elementary School District is deafening.

It had been predicted that critics of the JESD board and administration, under superintendent Frank Greenwood, would howl in anger once details of the audit were bared.

However, most have refused

News Analysis

comment on the matter, since the audit was made public last week.

Greenwood, himself, said he is preparing a reply to the audit report, which he is expected to make public within the next two weeks.

Answers to charges contained in the report regarding purchase practices and travel expenses, in addition to other procedures, were expected to be answered point by point by Greenwood and his staff in the days to come.

Meanwhile, the firm that has audited the JESD's books over the past five years — Belotz and Bates — said this week the district pays them to see that accounting practices are complied with and that the books balance with the tax basis levied against Daly City.

They do not go into detail, as the state Finance Department did in their audit conducted by Robert Hamric.

Alfred O. Belotz, co-partner in the Daly City firm, feels the state audit team under Hamric "were nit-picking."

Over the years, Belotz said, there have been things that were wrong and his firm had brought them before the board of trustees.

"In some cases the board took our advice and at other times they did not," Belotz said.

Belotz, whose firm underbid several others for the accounting job last year with a bid of $3,250, said he makes only "spot checks" of school matters.

It is up to Belotz' firm to see that money to meet the budget is available, not tell the board how to spend it, he said.

Trustee James Cranna, elected to the board only last year and re-elected in April to a four-year term, has been a strong administration supporter, siding in most issues with the male majority and not with Greenwood's two biggest critics — Dorothy Adams and Beverly Forrester.

But he said "the women" were apparently correct in many of their contentions of administration policy in light of the audit report.

"I now feel they were perhaps justified in their contentions," he said.

But Cranna, while vowing to take a strong stand on the audit report's recommendations, does not think there was "any criminal intent, although I will go along with the report that there have obviously been poor business practices."

The report was not as "thorough as I would have liked to see," Cranna said.

Incoming school board trustee David Parker, long-time critic of JESD policy, said he wants more time to study the report and to have the opportunity to call auditor Hamric back before the board to question him on several points "he did not raise in his report."

Parker will be sworn into office on July 3 — next week — at the Daly City City Hall council chambers.

He is expected to request Hamric appear back before the board.

Even Mrs. Adams made a

Rebuff Comes Soon After Audit Report

Within minutes after receiving a stern "shape up" audit report from the State Finance Department last Wednesday the Jefferson Elementary School District Administration asked the Board of Trustees to approve resurfacing of two areas of Colma and Columbus schools totaling some $7,000.

The district administration said three quotations had been received. It was recommended the lowest quotation of $6,395 be awarded.

Mrs. Dorothy Adams noted the project costs exceeded the amount stipulated in the Education Code by some $2,000 (the Code specifies that all work in excess of $5,000 must go to competitive bid) and that the auditors' report recommended this practice cease and the law be complied with.

Supt. Frank Greenwood informed the trustees they could award the contract to whomever they so desired.

The board unanimously rejected the staff recommendation and instructed Greenwood to have the matter go to bid.

Daly City Youth Heads Boys State

"We're all very proud of him," Raymond Howard Jr. said after hearing the news that his younger brother, Ralph, was elected governor of the 36th annual Boys' State yesterday.

Ralph E. Howard, 15, was elected by student representatives from throughout the state to the post.

He is a junior at Serramonte High School and praised by his teachers as being "well liked and very interested in school activities."

Ralph has had three sisters and a brother attend Serramonte.

The family, long-time residents of Daly City, live at 1295 Brunswick Avenue.

The son of The Rev. Raymond and Dorothy Howard, young Ralph was in Albany and not available for comment.

According to his friends, however, he is "really very proud" of the honor.

The Boys' State is a week-long exercise in state government and participated in by high school junior-year students from throughout California.

San Bruno Mountain Annex

Use Any Legal Means to Get Re-hearing, City Council Orders

San Bruno Mountain may one day rank with San Juan Hill, Pork Chop Hill, or even Mt. Surabachi, when oldtimers discuss famous battles.

Up until now, Daly City has been fighting only skirmishes to get the mountain inside its city limits.

Monday, the city council, in a 3-0 vote with Councilman McRobert Stewart abstaining, gave its city staff orders to seek whatever legal action was necessary to force the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) into giving it a rehearing.

On June 20, 1973, LAFCO refused to grant a review of its decision placing San Bruno Mountain into the sphere of influence of Brisbane.

Stewart, commissioner on the LAFCO board, also abstained from voting at that meeting.

Within 10 days, City Attorney Al Polonsky and City Manager David Rowe are expected to have mapped out their newest strategy in pushing attempts at getting the mountain.

Rowe said LAFCO has "exceeded its authority" in closing the door on rehearing and in establishing a "general service" area on the mountain for planning of a major development by the Foremost McKesson-AMFAC joint venture team.

To support their contention that Daly City can do a better job of handling the mountain, some city officials point to the recall now under way in Brisbane against Mayor Jess Salmon and Councilmen Julius Stern and William Lawrence — all proponents of having San Bruno Mountain within its city limits.

"The conclusions of LAFCO (in giving the mountain to Brisbane) are contrary to the bulk of the evidence presented at the public hearing held in January," Rowe said.

There had been criticism of Daly City concerning its alleged statements that the county's second largest city wanted no part of the mountain.

Rowe said statements attributed to him on this subject "simply aren't true."

He said quite the contrary, he sent a letter to supervisor (and LAFCO commissioner,) Mrs. Jean Fassler, on Feb. 23 pointing up the need for a Regional Planning Commission by a joint powers agreement composed of two members appointed by the Board of Supervisors, two by the North County Council of Cities, and three by Daly City, or any other combination.

Rowe also strongly criticizes LAFO Executive Director B. Sherman Coffman for failing to distribute copies of the city's petition until shortly before the June 8 meeting of LAFCO, although the letters had been hand delivered to Coffman some three days before.

Administrator Says

Convalescent Hospital Staff Works Toward Re-institution

The administrator of a Daly City convalescent hospital said Wednesday that he and his staff have taken steps to have their facility's good standing in the Medi-Cal program re-instituted.

Virgil Morrison explained that all of the reported deficiencies in the Cerro Gardens Convalescent Hospital which led to a suspension from the Medi-Cal program by the state director of health have been rectified.

Morrison said he and his staff were in the process of improving the situation at the rest home last February when Medi-Cal officials found 34 violations in the operation and plant.

Morrison, who said he is in the process of purchasing the hospital from the owner, Donald Brown of Seattle offered that it appeared to him that the Medi-Cal officials were "out to get Brown" when the February survey was made.

"This hospital is in perfect order," Morrison said, admitting that the place was in poor shape a year ago when Medi-Cal authorities first took a look at it.

"On its face," Morrison noted, "the charges sound like hell. I was called in last August to straighten up this house. Now, all of those old deficiencies have been corrected."

Morrison said he has asked Medi-Cal to return to Cerro Gardens to re-survey the hospital. He said the state organization has refused.

"This is a disservice to our patients," he said. "We've got 170 patients here and many of them are in a state of panic about this."

Medi-Cal payments have been cut off to patients at Cerro Gardens, effective July 12 at the latest.

Patients have been given up to 30 days to find new facilities by the state.

Daly City Killing

Guilty Pleas Entered

Three young men charged with murder in connection with a Daly City gang fight last April 2 pleaded guilty Wednesday to lesser felonies.

Mark Williams Garcia, 18, pleaded guilty to voluntary manslaughter; Edwin Olmos, 20, pleaded guilty to two counts of assault with a deadly weapon; Ronald Manuel de la Rosa, 20, pleaded guilty to being an accessory after the fact to manslaughter. All of the defendants are from San Francisco.

Superior Court Judge Gerald E. Ragan scheduled sentencing for July 11 at 9 a.m.

The suspects were arrested in connection with the bloody gang-style shooting in front of a Daly City home in which one youth was shot to death and four others were wounded.

Killed was Kerry McDowell, 18, of Daly City.

The shootings culiminated what Daly City Police Sgt. John Kolbman called a "long-simmering disagreement between two youth groups."

Judge Ragan dismissed the murder charges, plus a variety of other charges on the motion of prosecutor James P. Fox after the defendants entered their pleas of guilty.

Judge Ragan told Garcia and Olmos, 'There's a good likelihood that you will be sentenced to prison, but most likely you'll undergo a 90-day diagnostic treatment to determine if you belong in prison." The judge added that the maximum sentence for de la Rosa would be one year in county jail. Attorneys for the defendants were Philip Barnett, James Niven, and Phrasel Shelton.

2nd Recall Petition May Be Rejected

Colma city attorney Robert H. Cornell is expected to again reject a recall petition submitted against councilman Raymond Ottoboni Sr. because of address irregularities, The Times has learned.

It was the second time in two months the recall petition against Ottoboni, charging him with nepotism in the appointment of his son as police chief of Colma, has been turned down.

City Clerk Blanche Lagomarsino rejected the petition the first time around on grounds some of the signators were not registered voters.

Cornell said yesterday he is studying a couple of cases where a person moved into another residence at the same address.

In one case, a man and wife moved next door — from cottage "H" to "J" on the same street and number. However, both failed to register the move, according to Elsie Campbell and Marion Daneluz, sponsors of the petition.

Whether these minor irregularities are a basis to reject the petition is up to Cornell, a San Mateo County Election Department spokesman said.

Mrs. Lagomarsino said persons signing the petition were all "legitimate voters" but she noted some had moved and failed to note their new addresses.

The petition contained 43 names. Only 41 are needed to have the recall put on the ballot. The group has 30 days to correct the deficiencies and resubmit the petition.

Slayer, 25, Sentenced

Robert W. Marine, who killed his divorced wife in Colma last Oct. 7 and then worked as a suit salesman in Santa Monica until Dec. 28 while eluding authorities, has been sentenced to prison for a term of five years to life.

Marine, 25, pleaded guilty to second degree murder. The sentence was imposed Friday, by Superior Court Judge Gerald E. Ragan.

According to probation officer Gregory A. Klass, Marine claims that his divorced wife, Katherine, rejected his advances the night she was shot to death.

"The defendant said when he threatened to commit suicide, she urged him to follow through with it," Klass said. Instead, Marine shot several times at his former wife, who was seated in a car with him.

JESD Aides Rapped By State Auditors

A special State Audit report bared last Wednesday charges administration officials of the Jefferson Elementary School District with intentionally circumventing laws in the purchase of goods and services.

The report, asked for by an unidentified group of district taxpayers and conducted during the past several months by a team of State Finance and Education Department experts, pointed up what they called "objectionable" as well as "illegal" practices in areas audited.

Supt. Frank Greenwood at the outset of the meeting, held at the Daly City City Hall Council Chambers, said he would have no comment on the material presented until he had had time to study it.

The audit reports were handed out by State Finance Department Auditor Robert Hamric some 30 minutes before the meeting to the board of trustees and administration officials.

Greenwood and his associate superintendent for business, Roger Barthuli, sat silently throughout the presentation as Hamric read and commented on items in the 21-page preliminary report.

Only once, during an issue concerning contract agreements with the El Mar Transit line, which the State says is in violation of the Education Code regarding failure to obtain bids from other companies for transportation of pupils, did Barthuli interrupt.

Barthuli challenged a statement made by Hamric in the reading. It was later disclosed Hamric had misread the report.

Hamric had called the interpretation of El Mar's status as a carrier a "mistaken belief that (El Mar) was a licensed public carrier and . . . exempt from bidding."

The report notes that the State Public Utilities Commission holds that El Mar is free to negotiate its own rates with individual users such as the JESD and is not bound by what the PUC determines.

The 21 page report was broken into seven categories with the biggest list under the purchase of goods and services.

It was considered a strong denunciation of business practices within the district.

Hamric, considered an expert in school auditing, says the JESD report was not a "routine investigation of a district." He has had only one other such "complete audit" in the past two years," he said.

Asked how deep the audit of the school had gone, Hamric replied: "We barely scratched the surface."

How did the district compare with other district's that have undergone similar audits in recent years?

"First of all, we do not do that many complete audits. But this is the worst I've encountered," Hamric said.

The report notes that citizens seeking the audit had alleged instances of travel, revolving cash fund and bidding contract irregularities in their plea to the Attorney General's Office.

"We found many of these allegations were true," Hamric said.

In fact, there were "very few instances where the code was complied with in the purchase of goods and services," the auditor said.

Bookkeeping practices within the district were called "slipshod," especially in the area of travel.

The charge of intentionally circumventing laws in purchase of goods centered around such practices as the splitting of a purchase order into 12 smaller orders to the same company and having the goods delivered to the same destination to avoid going to bid when the amount exceeded $8,000.

This particular order was placed with the H. S. Crocker Company for "instructional supplies." The amount exceeded $43,000.

Hamric said he did not want to cite too many instances because "the administration could defend one (case) and we could come right back with a dozen more."

One of the more serious charges leveled by the audit team dealt with the addition of certain items after the Board of Trustees had approved a purchase order.

Unless the trustees involved themselves with detailed bookkeeping prior to a meeting they would never know of these additions, Hamric commented.

Travel expenses were, in most cases, unsubstantiated, the report noted.

It was recommended that in the future school employes undertaking travel on business not only properly substantiate their expenses, but give a full report on what they accomplished on behalf of taxpayers upon their return.

And while it was observed that school district officials received more travel allowances than state legislators, Hamric said the team could not find any instances of "padding."

In some areas the report "soft pedals" observers feel and on several instances conflicts its own statements.

As example, in its "General Observations" the report asks for stronger administrative controls because of "slipshod record-keeping, marginal adherence to law or advice of counsel administrative decisions in areas normally reserved for school board action, and questionable business practices which this review disclosed . . ."

Greenwood said the public should understand that no criminal intent was outlined in the report and Hamric had explained this.

In another section, specifically "Changes in approved purchase orders," the auditors wrote they found instances where items were added to approved purchase orders and this practice is "objectionable, and illegal."

This section alone lists 15 recommendations for tightening controls.

Other sections covered included the district's revolving cash fund; salary increases Greenwood, Barthuli Associate Superintendent Vin Stratton received; Vista Grande Cablevision ,and the controversial Savage School site.

"A district which is operated in strict conformance with accepted business practices and on a 'common sense basis when dealing with public funds, does not typically have to face allegations such as those which formed the basis for this review," the audit team said.

Incoming Trustee David Parker was asked if he felt the report was sufficient grounds to dismiss any official.

"I will have to study the report fully and carefully before making any such determination," Parker, who assumes office on July 1, said.

Only three trustees — Mrs. Dorothy Adams; Edward Tomasello and Jim Cranna — attended the audit report hearing.

Mrs. Beverly Forrester is on vacation and Board Chairman Albert Collett had to keep a prior appointment, it was understood.

30 Tails of 2 Cities

Daly City Battles Cats

Like the fog, the "Cat Ladies of San Francisco" crept into Daly City on little cat's paws.

In fact, they came into that northern San Mateo County city wtih 30 sets of cats' paws and one set of dogs' paws.

After being turned down in their request to house the pets in San Francisco, Rowana Olson and Colleen Meier moved their friends to a vacant garage at 6069 Mission St.

Over the garage is a tenant who has lived there before the cats arrived, back when the garage housed an overhead door company.

Monday night, the city council ordered the women to move their charges out of the garage.

Both women had asked for a use permit to operate a non-profit kennel on the premises. Such a use would violate city ordinances, city Attorney Al Polonsky told the city.

Establishment of a kennel in the area would violate the City Animal Regulation law, Polonsky said, not to mention a raft of other ordinances dealing with the use of garages in the city.

If somehow the women were able to meet these stipulations, the Planning Commission was prepared to throw another roadblock in the kennel's path by pointing out such a use would be of "significant impact" on the community and might require an Environmental Impact Report be prepared.

The non-profit kennel was organized in February 1973, the council was told.

A trusteeship has been established to care for the animals, normally those felines that nobody else wants.

The cat fanciers take in unwanted pets and have them nutored or spayed at no cost to the city, the council was told.

City Manager David Rowe said the garage should be used, under the city code, only for off-street parking for the adjacent residence.

"The violation is that the garage was illegally leased separately," Rowe said.

Asked what she will do now that Daly City has rejected her request, Rowena Olson said "I just don't know."

She said the couple live in Emeryville and "one or the other of us" constantly attends to the cats at the makeshift kennel.

"I just don't know where to go from here," she said.

Thornton HS Head Resigns

Ralph B. Galloway, principal of Thornton High School in Daly City, submitted his resignation to the Jefferson Union High School District Board of Trustees Tuesday.

Galloway has accepted a job as vice principal at Gunn High School in Palo Alto. He had been with the Jefferson district since 1965.

The Jefferson board accepted the resignation and set a June 29 deadline for applicants for the Thornton post.

cautious approach to the issue in a lengthy statement issued Monday.

She said, "perhaps I am more receptive to the report because it seems to say in a professional way what Mrs. Forrester and I have tried to get across for the past several years. That is, that the rules of operation set forth in the California Education Code are routinely ignored when they interfere with the convenience of the board majority or the administration.

Mrs. Adams was obviously referring verbal clashes with defeated Trustee Albert Collett, Trustee Edward Tomasello and, more recently, with Cranna.

"As to whether any of the actions specifically cited in the audit are illegal, I can only say that each of them has been referred to the district attorney (Keith Sorenson) at one time or another," she said, adding, "I must presume he would have acted upon anything of a criminal nature."

Asked if she felt the contents of the report were grounds for dismissal of Greenwood or his associate for business, Roger Barthuli, Mrs. Adams would not answer directly.

Instead she replied:

"Actually, since education is a function of the state government, all authority in connection therewith is vested in the state legislature. Certain powers are delegated by the legislature to local school agencies, and it is essentially the duty of the local governing board to comply with . . . the education code.

closure" and states bluntly: "No rear fences, hedges, or to other enclosures or extensions thereof shall be permitted to a height exceeding five feet, except as authorized or approved by the Architectural Committee. . . "

Attempts to reach Boyette following the city council meeting were to no avail.

Councilman Bernard Lycett expressed dismay at the way in which the deck was built without a permit, or notification of neighbors.

By simply approving the deck after the fact, Lycett said, this would "condone doing the same thing throughout the city." He was referring to the fact that the deck, under existing law, had been illegally built.

It would be a case of "catch as catch can" if such practices were left unpunished, Lycett noted.

Lycett moved, and the council backed him, on postponing any further action on the matter until the WSIA had taken up the matter at their next regular meeting.

Daly City Safe Hit, $500 Loot

Daly City police were today investigating the burglary of a safe at the Westlake Pontiac Company offices, 7400 Mission St.

Police said the safe had been "punched open" and an estimated $500 stolen.

S.S.F. Pair Sentenced For Drugs

A South San Francisco man and wife, Sandra and Gary Johnson were sentenced last week on drug violations.

Mrs. Johnson, 26, who pleaded guilty to possession of heroin, was committed to the California Rehabilitation Center for drug addicts by Superior Court Judge Gerald E. Ragan.

Her husband was put on two years probatin. He pleaded guilty to being present in a room where narcotics are used.

Judge Ragan said Mrs. Johnson "is in danger of becoming addicted to heroin, if she isn't already addicted."

The Johnsons were arrested November 26 following the Thanksgiving Day death of Michael Raczynski, 24, of South San Francisco. He died from an overdose of methadone, a synthetic drug used as a substitute for heroin.

Mrs. Johnson initially was charged with murder in connection with Raczynski's death, but the charge was dropped because of insufficient evidence, according to James P. Fox, deputy district attorney.

3 Arrested In Pacifica

Pacifica police arrested three men in connection with a house burgalry in that city Friday after they allegedly ran a roadblock set up to capture them.

Officers Ted Kendrick and Edward Molinsky spotted a van matching the description of a vehicle believed used in the burglary of a home on Peralta Way.

A woman returning home about 10:30 p.m. spotted a man walking out of the Charles Goble home with a television set.

She called police giving them a description of the van.

Officer Robert Lavoie issued an all-points bulletin for the vehicle.

As the van approached a roadblock, several blocks from the burglary scene, the driver allegedly tried to speed off, but officers Kendrick and Molinsky succeeded in stopping the van.

Arrested and charged with burglary was George A. Jiminez, 25, and Ramon Gutierrez, 23, both of San Francisco. Also arrested on burglary charges was Jose Mayorga, 22, of Vallejo.

Police said the van had "peep holes" cut in the sides which allowed persons inside to look out.

Inside the van police said they found a number of guns, radios, a television set and other property.

Young Adults Enjoying Wines

Later this month Joe Milner of San Bruno will put aside his plates of cheese and wine corks.

He will have completed a unique odyssey across the nation.

Milner and ten associates were dispatched by the California Wine Institute to get young Americans (ages 21 to 30) interested in drinking wines.

His trail carried him throughout the Midwest as well as California and the Western States.

The plan was simple. Milner and his associates staged wine tasting parties for young adults. They used college lists, singles club lists and apartment complexes as their bases.

"We used a strict formula. We provided four California wines none costing over $1.29 a bottle. Then we let the host buy any European wine with a maximum of $4 per bottle. The tasting was held with unmarked bottles so there could be no cheating," he said.

"After testing some 50,000 people in 840 separate tastings we discovered that California wines were preferred in about 85 per cent of the cases."

JOE MILNER

Milner reported that most of the wine tasters were beginners although a few had some knowledge.

"We are not trying to create wine snobs. On the contrary. We just want young people to have a basic knowledge of wines. We found that many were buying strictly by tradition. When they found that California wines were cheaper and better than the imports they were surprised ad grateful."

The wine tastings were held in accord with traditional affairs, said Milner.

"We pointed out that California wines rarely, if ever, have a vintage year in contrast to European wines. We also make the point that our controls are the strictest in the world."

Milner feels that the increasing use of so-called pop wines or sweet wines by young people stems from a desire to move from sweet colas to wine gradually.

"We are still far behind the French and the Italians in per capita wine consumption," said Milner, "but we are improving," as he packed his kit for a visit to the Northpark apartments in San Bruno for one of his final testings.

LSSD Budget Okay, Tax Cut Seen

To have something approved because the law says it has to do it, the Laguna Salada Union High School District Board of Trustees approved a tentative 1973-74 fiscal budget last week.

Nothing in the way of income or outgo is definite yet and the deciding factor of assessed valuation will not be known till August, when the tax rate is set. New state laws could change everything too, Superintendent James R. Brien warned the board.

The latest tax rate calculation in this second budget draft by Noah W. Reese, assistant superintendent for business services, is $2.69 per $100 assessed valuation, compared with the $3.9779 rate for the 1972-73 fiscal year ending June 30.

Why does Laguna Salada get such a large rate drop when other neighboring districts don't, Trustee Dale W. Buettgenback asked Brien.

It's tied up in new state aid equalization formulas, Brien replied, with more money coming to "low wealth" districts like this one in Pacifica, while some of the "high wealth" districts like Burlingame and Millbrae suffer cutbacks.

The budget figures show total state income to Laguna Salada next fiscal year at $4,157,365, up from $2,934,528 this year and accounted for by a 1971-72 "ADA adjustment," or average daily attendance payments by the state based on the number of students who actually attended school.

But things could be different next week if a "trailer bill" to Senate Bill 90 of last year, which locked local agencies into present tax rates, is passed in Sacramento, Brien said.

The new bill could have an effect on some taxes and apportionments, he said.

But the district still by law can't raise much more money than this year and expenditures will be tight, the petitioners found.

Fred Howard, chairman of the Pacifica Parks, Beaches and Recreation Commission, argued long and eloquently for a turfed playground or at least a leveled baseball field at San Andreas School.

"The children have nothing adequate to play on except the front of the school," Howard said, recalling that a teacher broke an ankle on the rough field there not long ago.

"If somebody gave us complete turfed areas at all schools we couldn't afford to maintain them. This has nothing to do with our desires," Buettgenback replied.

Several parents also appealed for better play area conditions, including the Sanchez PTA, which asked for $2,000 in district matching funds to match its own $2,000 for improvements at Sanchez.

"That school certainly needs it and deserves it," Brien agreed. Later he told the board that because the budget is "extremely tight, there is very little in capital improvements at this point."

The total tentative budget "balances" at $7,209,400, including an $85,000 undistributed reserve. The latter is 1.1 per cent of the budget total, considered small.

2nd Planner Leaves Post In South S.F.

South San Francisco Assistant City Planner William Timmons Friday took a deferred retirement from his duties with that North County city.

In a letter to City Manager Gale Dreisbach, Timmons said, "It has been with considerable pleasure and pride that I have worked in the office of the city planner, and to have served the citizens and the planning commission. I therefore thank them for that privilege."

Timmons' decision came a day after City Planner Dan Pass left the city, also on a deferred retirement. It had been reported earlier that Pass' dating had been "terminated." Dreisbach explained he had asked Pass for a resignation, but accepted an "immediate" deferred retirement instead.

Dresibach said he had asked for Pass' resignation because "I lost confidence in his ability to be objective in this city in his particular discipline."

Pass, 51, came to South San Francisco as city planner from Napa in 1966.

Planning consultant Neal Martin will be named acting city planner, according to Dreisbach.

Part of Community Center

Psychiatric Unit to Open at Mary's Help

Plans for a 13-bed psychiatric unit opening in July at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City were revealed today by Rex Chase, administrator of the 270-bed general hospital.

The facility will offer inpatient psychiatric services and emergency mental health care to area residents as part of a Community Mental Health Center, he announced.

Preparations are now being made for the unit, which will be located on the eighth floor.

A grant from the National Institute for Mental Health was made last year to four North San Mateo County groups which, collectively, will form the Community Mental Health Center for the area.

These four groups are: North County Mental Health Center, which will offer day care and outpatient services; Guadalupe Health Center, which will provide outpatient services; Mental Health Recovery, Inc., which will offer residence care, and Mary's Help Hospital.

"Mary's Help Hospital received $325,000 which will be used to staff the unit," Chase stated.

He cited the Community Mental Health Center as a "unique partnership between the public and private sectors aimed at providing a comprehensive mental health care system."

Six of the 13 beds in the unit will be reserved for San Mateo County patients under the Short-Doyle program, according to Chase. The Short-Doyle Act assures that patients needing mental health services receive care in their local community rather than in state institutions.

Dr. Margaret K. Sainio has been appointed director of the Division of Psychiatric Medicine at Mary's Help. Formerly administrator and medical director of Belmont Hills Psychiatric Center, Dr. Sainio has worked many years with psychiatric patients.

She received a doctorate in anatomy and an M.B. degree from Helsinki University in Finland. Dr. Sainio then traveled to the United States where she served her internship at Tucson Medical Center in Arizona. Upon completion of her internship in 1957, Dr. Sainio attended Stanford University Medical School where she received an M.D. degree in 1959. Her residency in psychiatry was completed at Stanford University Medical Center in 1962. Dr. Sainio is board certified in psychiatry and neurology.

Dr. Sainio believes that psychiatry has always been an isolated medical service, because most people are hesitant about seeking psychiatric help.

"We want the Mary's Help Psychiatric Unit to reach out to people in the community and be responsive to their needs," she declared.

"Therefore, we will try to implement new programs and services which are searched for by individuals and community groups." Dr. Sainio stated. "After all, it isn't logical to design a program and then try to fit people to it."

Dr. Sainio stated that the trend in psychiatry today is toward outpatient care of patients rather than hospitalization. "But," she explained, "through hospitalization it is easier to treat the total patient, giving mental and physical care simultaneously, and reach the goal of returning the patient to his home much faster."

Pair Robbed In San Bruno; Wallet Taken

Crime in the streets became a vivid reality last week for Mr. and Mrs. Albert Verdugo of San Bruno.

After an evening out for dinner, the couple was walking in a quiet residential neighborhood, westbound on San Felipe Avenue toward Poplar Avenue.

Turning onto Poplar Avenue they heard a voice saying "Hey!" They turned around to face a young man in his early 20's wearing a ski mask over his head. "Give me your billfold," he demanded, holding a revolver in his left hand.

Police said Verdugo reported the suspect, who ran eastbound on San Felipe toward El Camino Real, escaped with a wallet containing numerous credit cards and $9 in cash.

He Went Thataway

Like a page from the Old West, the man walked into the restaurant, pulled the sombrero down over his eyes, held pistols in both hands and demanded all the money.

It happened like that about 10:30 p.m. Sunday at the Oriental Restaurant, 130 El Camino Real, San Bruno. The bandit escaped with an estimated $400, in a yellow Volkswagen.

Police said that the robber, upon entering the restaurant, said "give me all your money or I will murder you." He then instructed the restaurant owners and employes to "get up against the wall, and don't turn around."

He was last seen, police said, speeding away north on San Anselmo Avenue.

Court Rules Against City

Millbrae Apartments Win

Joseph Karp can build apartments in the Millbrae Theatre parking lot in Millbrae, according to a decision delivered in Redwood City by Superior Court Judge Robert Carter.

The decision came as the climax to a year-long litigation of a suit filed by Karp and United Artists Theatres against the City of Millbrae, which had refused permission for the apartment buildings.

Millbrae planning commissioners denied Karp's application for a permit to construct the condominium apartment buildings last May, and the decision was upheld by councilmen after a stormy session in July.

The city's refusal to allow the apartments was based on the fact that to do so would be to leave the theater without parking space, although the parking lot portion of the property is zoned for apartment uses and the section of the property with the theater on it is zoned for commercial uses and does not reqire parking.

In his decision, Judge Carter ruled:

"That a landowner may elect to voluntarily provide parking facilities to patrons of an economic venture, to perhaps assist in its economic success, does not give rise to some 'right' in public agency to impose some subsequent conditions or restrictions."

The parking lot for years has been used by the public during the day, but Judge Carter said:

"The court further is satisfied that there was no dedication (of the parcels) as a parking lot.

"In substance, the city really seeks to compel plaintiff to provide the city with a free parking lot and in effect keep it open as an adjunct to the operation of the theater.

"The defendant city seeks by a judicial decision," Judge Carter ruled, "the literal condemnation of plaintiff's parcels, by limiting plaintiff's use of same, without compensation."

The plaintiffs are entitled to use the apratment-zoned parcels for construction of apartment buildings, the judge ruled, and are entitled to recover costs of the suit from the city.

Chase at 100 M.P.H. Ends With Battle

Two young men were jailed last week after battling highway patrolmen and Pacifica police following an eight-mile chase at speeds up to 100 miles an hour from the Half Moon Bay Airport to Pacifica.

Highway Patrolmen William J. Williams Jr. and A. L. Toscanelli reported they were southbound on Cabrillo Highway at 1:30 a.m. when a northbound car passed at a high rate of speed.

The patrolmen gave chase, reporting their car reached speeds up to 100 miles an hour. The other car didn't slow down until it reached the curvy Devil's Slide Area, dropping to 65 miles an hour briefly, the officers reported.

At one point, the patrolmen said, the other car swerved into the southbound lane, forcing an oncoming vehicle to swerve off the road and sideswipe an embankment.

As the chase reached Pacifica, the other car turned onto Pedro Street, reaching a speed of 75 miles an hour in the residential area before finally being forced to halt by a Pacifica police patrol car driven by Officer R. J. Lannie.

The patrolmen reported that the car's occupant, driver Donald James Lee, 22, a San Francisco carpenter, and Kenneth Lindsey, 21, of Ipswich, Mass., a soft drink salesman, came out fighting.

Toscanelli's uniform shirt was ripped, he was struck in the stomach and his watch was ripped off and smashed before the patrolmen and three Pacifica officers could subdue and handcuff Lee and Lindsay.

Lee was booked at county jail on charges of reckless driving, failure to heed a red light and siren, having no operator's license in possession and resisting arrest. Lindsay was booked on a charge of resisting arrest.

SSF Holdup Arrests

Two South San Francisco policemen aided San Mateo officers and agents from the Department of Corrections in the arrest earlier this week of two suspects in recent armed robberies of massage parlors in San Mateo and Palo Alto.

According to police, Officer Pat Sullivan and Technician Ed Remedios were part of the group intending to make an arrest at a South San Francisco residence.

However, the suspects jumped in a car and sped away. They were stopped at the intersection of Airport Boulevard and Armour Ave.

Booked with San Mateo authorities were Ronald Hamil, 27, giving a Napa address, and Patricia Hamil, 23, of 28 Eastwood Dr., San Mateo.

S.S.F. City Manager Dreisbach Resigns

By BOB PETERSON

South San Francisco City Manager Gale F. Dreisbach has resigned as chief administrator of that North County city.

The move, although not necessarily unexpected, came more swiftly than most observers had anticipated.

Dreisbach, who since his appointment in 1971 has been controversial, and a man of few words publicly, maintained this character trait in his terse resignation letter and ability to elude the press in the wake of his decision.

Gale Dreisbach

The letter, dated June 20, and addressed to the mayor and council, said, "Honorable Sirs: I hereby tender my resignation as city manager, effective this date." It also carried his signature.

Dreisbach later agreed to staw until current budget work is completed.

One City Hall observer summed up the resignation by saying that the various acts and statements by the new council majority have indicated they don't choose to have a strong city manager form of government, and therefore Dreisbach felt compelled to resign.

It was no secret that during the recent campaign, which placed Terry Mirri in a council seat, vacated because of the accidental death of Gordon T. Boblitt, that Dreisbach's future as South San Francisco's city manager was in jeopardy.

Among the campaign verbiage was the assertion that if Mirri were elected not only Dreisbach, but Police Chief Sal Rosano and Finance Officer Ed Alario, would be fired. These allegations were repeatedly denied.

Dreisbach was the mastermind of the aborted governmental reorganization intended to use a consulting firm (VTN) to operate within the city government with the goal of increased efficiency with equal if not better service.

It appears that action taken at Monday night's council meeting had much impetus in Dreisbach's decision.

During that meeting the council on a 3-2 vote — with Mayor Warren Steinkamp and Councilman Frank Mammini voting in the negative — approved the first reading of an ordinance that would remove the authority from the city manager to hire and fire department heads. He had been given that authority a year ago.

In addition, the new council majority, specifically Councilmen Bill Borba and Patrick Ahern, have been repeatedly questioning every city expenditure, trip or lunch, that Dreisbach either participated in or authorized payment for.

And what appeared to be more toward the intent of usurping city manager authority was a nine-point program offered to the council Monday night by Borba.

He called for, among other things, the council sanctioning of all leaves outside the immediate area, restoring of department division heads to department status, removal of all positions created in the past 12 months, establishment of a seven-member public safety commission, and appointment of a city charter study commission of 20 persons.

The council, on a 4-1 vote (Borba's was the negative vote), decided to put the nine-point proposal over for a study session.

But as far as some city hall observers are concerned Borba's proposal, not only was a rebuke of Driesbach, but further confirms suspicions that South San Francisco city government can't absolve itself of nepotism, political patronage and bossism.

There is some irony in the fact that it appears to be actions by Borba that drove Driesbach out. It was Borba who made a concerted effort to have Dreisbach return to the city after he quit briefly for two weeks when first hired.

At that time, there was an underlying conflict of Dreisbach's authority. Apparently because of a disagreement on job duties, Ahern declined to vote unanimous approval of Dreisbach.

In addition to his resignation letter, Dreisbach left two interoffice memoranda. One relieved Alario of earlier assigned extra duties of assistant city manager, personnel officer, director of emergency services and employe relations officer. "Your sole responsibility shall be director of finance," said the memo.

The other (both were dated June 19) was to City Atty. John Noonan, appointing him city manager pro-tem, until June 23, when the council is scheduled to meet in a budget session.

Dreisbach's resignation leaves the city council the unguided task of reviewing and approving its annual budget, and wage negotiations, among other priority items.

Race Track In Brisbane Hit by Fire

A fire of undetermined origin badly damaged the Champion Speedway auto track in Brisbane Saturday night, sending one fireman to the hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation.

Assistant Fire Chief Cy Bologoff said damage was confined to the speedway's restaurant, offices, concession stands and rest room areas. Bologoff suffered an injury to his right hand from a nail as he climbed into the blazing structure.

Lack of water in the immediate area hampered firefighters.

Three trucks were used to relay water to the fire scene, adjacent to the Bayshore Freeway, from a water hydrant some 3,000 feet away.

Fireman John Lemmings was hospitalized for treatment of smoke inhalation at Peninsula Hospital at the height of the blaze.

Fire investigators, while not sure how the fire started, said they found burned grass leading up to the main building from a nearby field.

Bologoff estimated damage at $6,000.

Owner of the speedway is Jim McClennan.

Dental Tools Taken in Bruno

Dental student Edwin Abrascart, 25, of 672 Second Ave., San Bruno, reported to police that a case of dentistry tools valued at $1,387.55 that he had brought home to clean were taken from his locked vehicle during the weekend.

Drinking Reclaimed Water May Become Routine Locally

Drinking reclaimed sewage water may be a daily and routine matter on the Peninsula within 30 years, Millbrae City Administrator Richard Watson predicted last week.

Watson made the comment as his City Council approved a 20-year agreement with Burlingame, San Bruno, South San Francisco and San Francisco International Airport for a joint sewage outfall line into the bay.

"The reason the agreement is for 20 years," he said, "is that by then we may find it more economical to reclaim the water and recirculate it."

"For drinking purposes?" asked one councilman.

"There are those who predict we will be doing that, by the year 2000," Watson answered matter-of-factly.

He and City Engineer Val Padovan said the first and most likely uses for such water would be for industry and irrigation.

Padovan said wherever there would be the demand.

The previous night, Burlingame City Councilman Irving Amstrup, had called attention to the fact most contracts between Peninsula cities and San Francisco for water supplies, end in 1979, and that no other substitute water source is on the horizon.

Millbrae Mayor Art Lepore asked if the agreement to connect with other North County cities for sewage outfall, meant that Millbrae would be treating its effluent any differently.

"No," said Padovan, "in fact, we are spending an additional $125,000 now, to improve the condition of the effluent."

Like Burlingame, Millbrae provides sewage treatment so thorough that an additional filtration would make the water almost drinkable, Padovan said.

"In the future, we might recover waste water?" asked Councilman William Glang.

"Within 20 years," said Padovan, "we might find that it would pay us to do that."

Councilmen unanimously approved the joint agreement, as Burlingame had Monday night. City Attorney Frank Gillio explained that it provides Millbrae a "buy-in" for sewage disposal capacity, in one clause, and a nearly separate contract for operational services provided by South San Francisco.

The council approved seeking bids on an El Camino Real beautification project and on Lomita Creek erosion control.

Councilman Harold Purpus and Mayor Art Lepore were appointed a committee-of-two to name a larger committee to arrange the city's part in a 1976 celebration of the nation's 200th anniversary.

Ask Bruno Council To Avoid Election

The San Bruno referendum group fighting the construction of two 13-story office buildings and a four-level parking structure is asking the city council to repeal an earlier approved ordinance, rather than hold an expensive special election.

This action, in a letter signed by Leonard Hausken, Terri Rasmussen and Gary Mondfrans, was prompted by the fact City Manager Gerald Minford earmarked finds in the 1973-74 budget to cover a possible special election.

The letter asks that if the council does not choose to repeal the ordinance — which was approved on a 3-2 vote — then "we respectfully ask that the issue be placed on the ballot at the next regular municipal election scheduled for next April."

It was pointed out in the letter that a special election would be an unnecessary expenditure of tax funds. "It was never the intention of this committee to incur additional costs to the city," said the letter.

"If the developer desires a special election, we would not object, as long as he would bear the entire cost. None of these expenses should be charged to the San Bruno taxpayers," said the letter.

Mondfrans, attending the council budget study session Tuesday night, asked Minford about the inclusion of the money in the budget. He was told it was a simple matter of being prepared for the possibility of a special election.

Jefferson High School District Forced to Buy Five New Buses

The alternatives seemed to be worse, so the Jefferson Union High School District Board of Trustees dug deep into the budget and capital outlay funds last night to approve purchase of five new 66-passenger school buses.

BART caused the crisis with its new station on Knowles Avenue in Daly City. The school board learned last night that something had to be done because Greyhound Lines, supplier of five chartered buses this past school year, will drop the service when BART becomes operative at the Daly City station. That is scheduled for September.

The basic use of the Greyhound buses is to carry workers from the East Bay to their jobs in the Daly City-San Francisco area. Afer the morning run, the buses are used by the district during the day to transport students.

Dr. Harold Tonini, district personnel director, told the board that the district's use of the commute buses was obtained "at a very favorable rate."

In view of the impending unavailability of the buses, the school board discussed these alternatives: lengthen bus runs, which could create serious scheduling problems; hire local charter buses, the prices of which Tonini called "out of sight"; or buy new buses.

The board went for the latter, first approving purchase of two for replacements from Gillig Bros. of Hayward, the low bidder. Dr. Robert Watt, assistant superintendent-business, informed the board three more meeting its specifications were available at the bid price, $13,950.

The board had called for bids on five, so took them. Gillig had bid on only two, but Watt said orders for the others since had been canceled by other districts.

The district "might still have problems," Tonini warned, because "we're still faced with three to a seat," meaning full buses and heavy schedules.

In another financial matter of some importance last night the board approved a 1973-74 tentative fiscal budget, a document so tentative now that the local property tax rate is calculated on a "work sheet" with spaces left for more figuring later.

The dilemma posed by Senate Bill 90 of last year limiting local tax rates to present levels has caused Watt to figure district income twice, under "old" formulas and under SB90 formula restrictions. The new tentative rate could be $2.6884 per $100 assessed valuation, still up nearly 10 cents form the present fiscal year. "Trailer bills" to SB90 could change things, he said.

This budget had to be adopted by June 30 by law. The final document and tax rate will be adopted in August.

Financially, the board got some other good and bad news last night.

The good news was that new insurance liability and property damage coverage had been obtained at a saving of $94,417 a year for the next three years in what Watt called "an outstanding package." The board accepted a low bid from Levinson Bros., Inc., for the package, which not only costs less but provides more protection, including against vandalism.

The bad news was from Ernest J. Ribera, assistant superintendent-instruction, who said he had learned that a federal grant for an environmental education program at Jefferson, Westmoor and Serramonte High Schools wouldn't come through but he had to check it yet.

The district had requested $40,000 and the program will go on, Ribera said, although not on a scale as planned. Other sources of money will be sought, he said.

Bruno Mailing Probed

A letter dated June 14 that went to U.S. Postal authorities from San Bruno City Hall, requesting investigation of possible postal violations in the use of the city clerk's office as a return address in a bulk mailing, didn't satisfy one city official.

Councilman John Barnard, therefore, sent his own letter, dated June 15, to the same postal authorities, providing what he considers more explicit information.

Barnard said the letter from the city was "not quite covering it all." He said he "wasn't satisfied" the postal authorities were given "the right track" to follow in the investigation.

The letter that came from the city was drafted in the city manager's office, and was over City Clerk Carl Hultberg's name. Hultberg's name was signed by the city manager's secretary, according to the initials beneath the signature.

"The city council hereby requests that the postal authorities investigate the circumstances surrounding the Citizens for Balanced Community Growth use of the City Clerk's office as a return address with responsibility for the return postage indicated," said the beginning of the letter.

"It is believed that possible postal violations were involved. If postal violations were involved it is assumed that the postal authorities will take whatever action is appropriate," if continued.

The second paragraph of the letter noted that during discussion which led to the council request, there were "charges and countercharges that both employes and non-employes of the postal service acted improperly in this matter."

It was pointed out that the city wanted a letter back indicating the results of the investigation "so that everyone can know exactly what took place and whether or not improprieties were involved."

Barnard's letter to the postal authorities enclosed a copy of the official city letter. "I am not satisfied as a councilman that letter of June 14, 1973, directed to your attention will give you enough direction in which to make this a complete investigation," wrote Barnard.

He listed four specifics from which he concluded that "it would appear to me that a deliberate violation of postal laws are involved."

Barnard said in his letter that the mailers were still at the post office and not delivered until June 6, "which gave Mr. Hons at least two days in which the mailers could have been picked up and corrected."

Hultberg said he had "communications" with Hons. He said he doesn't remember the specifics of the conversation but said the indication he had was that the mailing was already in progress.

The mailing was an effort to combat a referendum petition drive that is seeking to rescind recent approval of two 13-story office buildings in the Bayhill development.

It was intended that residents receiving the mailer would sign it as an indication they wanted their names removed from petitions they may have signed earlier and return it to the city clerk's office. The mailer was addressed to the city clerk's office.

However, the group putting the mailer together didn't remove the words "Postage will be paid by" from beside the city clerk's address. The result was that some residents received the impression the city was paying the postage.

Ironically, as the mailer was going out to residents, the referendum petitons were being filed with the city clerk. That act nullified any effect of the mailer, as far as signature removal was concerned.

Grundy Park Dilemma Faces Bruno City Couucil

Whether a house is built, or the city buys land on Chestnut Avenue to expand Grundy park, is still up to the San Bruno City Council.

Planning commissioners Monday night reviewed a half dozen proposed layouts, each showing various numbers of trees needing to be removed. They concluded they could find no acceptable alternative plan which would allow both the construction of a house and the saving of trees.

At its last meeting, the council indicated it was investigating the possibility of purchasing the lot, which owner and developer Joe Welch says he values at $15,000. He also said he's already sold an as-yet-unbuilt house, he valued at $50,000, for the property.

Welch, at the Monday night planning commission meeting, said he had received a letter from City Manager Gerald Minford which said the city was contemplating the purchase of the property.

"It seems the city could find better use for $15,000 than saving three or four trees," said Welch. He pointed out that he was willing to deed a strip next to the property, which contains numerous trees, to the city for the park expansion.

Planning Director Jack Mulqueeney said he had written a letter to the County Board of Supervisors asking if that body would be open to the possibility of providing "matching funds" so the city could buy the property at 571 Chestnut, for park use.

One resident, Paul Grech, of 565 Chestnut said that at the time he bought his home he was told (and found out later it was a mistake) that the city owned the property that Welch owns.

Grech explained how he wanted the trees to remain and no development be approved for the vacant property.

Commission Chairman Bill Cox suggested that Grech take his concerns to the next council meeting, "since that body will have to make the decision."

Hearing on Colma Creek

A hearing on the proposal of San Mateo County to proceed with a proposed $5 million to $8 million flood control program for Colma Creek will be held July 12 at 10 a.m. before the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

The county has decided to proceed with the project, through an assessment program following failure of the Army Corps of Engineers to take action.

A bill currently before the State Legislature would permit the county to levy an assessment district tax on property owners along the creek to finance the project.

Man Injured On Freeway

An 18-year-old Daly City man reportedly was struck by a car while walking on Bayshore Freeway near Poplar Avenue in San Mateo at about 12:30 a.m. today, according to the highway patrol.

The victim, Kelly J. Braas, 500 Eighty-seventh St., Daly City, was reported in good condition at Mills Hospital this morning, with scalp and thigh lacerations.

Arson Fires On Mt. Bruno

Firemen from the State Division of Forestry fought two fires on San Bruno Mountain last week, both apparently started by an arsonist.

Firemen responded with seven trucks when the first fire was reported around 4:30 p.m. near the top of the mountain. Before it was extinguished some 10 acres of grass were burned.

The second fire was reported around 7 p.m. near the intersection of the Guadalupe Valley Parkway and Radio Road. It covered about an acre of grass and burned through eucalyptus grove.

Plan to Buy Vacation Time Splits Jefferson School Board

The Jefferson Elementary School Board split two to one last night on buying up the vacation time of Supt. Frank Greenwood and associate for business Roger Varthuli.

Last year the Board, also in a split vote, agreed to buy the vacation time of both men.

Shortly after the school district paid Supt. Greenwood for some of his vacation time the superintendent went on vacation.

Mrs. Maxine Abe asked if either of the men had been denied their vacation time off.

The answer was "no."

Cost of buying up the vacation time, which both men recommend be done prior to Trustee David Parker's taking office on July 1, so the books can be cleared, would have been some $9,300.

Mrs. Abe hit hard at the fact she felt the district was giving Greenwood too much "compensatory time off" from his job.

Acting Chairman Edward Tomasello, springing to Greenwood's defense, said the superintenent's job was not one that required a time clock be punched, that Greenwood was literally on duty all the time and he had sacrificed much of his family life for the district.

"He should be able to take off whenever he can," Tomasello said.

But Tomasello, along with Adams, balked at again buying up the two officials' time.

He said last year it was agreed arrangements would be made for the men to take their time off away from school this year.

Only Trustee James Cranna insisted on purchasing the vacation time.

Cranna said the budget included monies to buy the administrators' vacation time. However, it was pointed out by Greenwood that the budget did not specifically set aside funds for this; rather, money would have to come from other areas.

Tomasello and Cranna voted that the vacation time not be bought up. Adams abstained.

On hearing the decision, Greenwood said he wanted the minutes of the session to reflect the fact the Board has failed to abide by its agreement with him and Barthuli which provides for this.

"It's obvious," was Tomasello's only comment on Greenwood's remark.

Supervisors Set Budget

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors balanced the new county government budget last week with federal revenue-sharing funds.

A $1.5 million deficit, created by a first-time fixed tax rate ceiling of $2.09, was financed this way, while another $2.5 million was earmarked for the county's long-range capital improvements program.

That left some $600,000 of the $4.6 million revenue-sharing pot to be distributed among several outside agencies and county departments and brought the final county budget figure up to the vicinity of $141 million for 1973-74.

Formal adoption of the budget probably will not be until late July or August, a departure from previous years.

Revenue sharing requests for the south county granted by the supervisors included the Pacifica Library construction and Guadalupe Health Center; $30,000 for operations.

PGE Robbery In Daly City

A lone gunman, believed to be driving an old car with an out-of-state license plate and pulling a utility trailer, held up a Pacific Gas & Eelctric Company office in Daly City yesterday.

The man, armed with a .38-caliber handgun, herded about a dozen PG&E employes into a back room of the office at 11 Southgate Avenue shortly after 1 p.m. before fleeing with an estimated $200 from a collection drawer, polices aid.

He was described as white, 5' 9"; 150-165 pounds; brown eyes; brown hair and wearing a gray sports coat.

Surveillance Heightened On Beaches

Past and recent publicity on the contamination of S. F. Bay and coastside waters by sewage and industrial wastes has resulted in numerous calls to the Department of Public Health by concerned residents who use these public swimming and bathing areas.

A surveillance program is conducted by the Department of Public Health and Welfare, Environmental Health section covering both the coastside and bayside of San Mateo County. The purpose of this program is to assure that a healthful environment is maintained for the public using these water contact sports areas.

A number of bacteriological monitoring stations have been established along the coastline from Half Moon Bay north to San Francisco. Bathing waters at these stations are collected and tested at least once a month. Laboratory results of these tests show that bathing waters at these beaches meet the requirements for bacteriological quality prescribed by State law.

Coastside beaches included in this surveillance program are Thornton, Sharp Park, Rockaway, Linda Mar, Greywhale Cove, Montara, Fitzgerald Marine Reserve, Pillar Point, El Granada, Miramar, Dunes, Francis, and Martin's Beach.

The bathing waters at the public coastside beaches located south of Half Moon Bay are not subject to contamination by waste discharge and these areas are considered to have bathing waters of safe bacteriological quality.

In San Francisco Bay monitoring stations have been located at the Oyster Point Beach in South San Francisco and at the Coyote Point Beach in San Mateo. The bathing waters at these beaches are sampled routinely and the results of tests on these samples show the waters meet the standards required by law. Only one small neighborhood beach, Neptune Beach in Redwood Shores has been posted due to a localized problem not attributable to any treatment plant.

Water samples are also collected on a regular basis from the Marina Lagoon in San Mateo and the interior lagoons at Foster City. Test results on bacteriological samples taken from these lagoons show that the bathing waters at the beaches developed in these lagoons meet the standards set by State Law.

Alternatives To Corridor On Coastside

An interdepartmental team from the State Division of Highways is now available to meet with citizens' groups throughout the coastside to discuss alternatives for the Route 1 highway corridor from Pacifica to Half Moon Bay.

The team was originally formed last year to act as transportation consultant to those involved in planning for the mid-coastal area of San Mateo County. At the time, the Division of Highways' representatives met with residents' associations from throughout the area, city and county planners, city officials, and developers, stressing in these talks that land-use plans determine transportation needs.

Now the Division of Highways has begun environmental studies on Route 1 from Pacifica to Half Moon Bay, and the team is responsible for gathering citizen input for these studies. The DOH representatives will meet with any group to listen to suggestions and to discuss alternative routes and facilities for the corridor under study.

"We would like to emphasize that the scope of the team has been expanded this year to include Devil's Slide," said Dick Parker, project engineer. "We will discuss all aspects of Devil's Slide as well as the rest of the Route 1 project."

Parker noted that he adopted general plan of the city of Half Moon Bay does not include a freeway, but there seems to be general public agreement that something should be done to improve transportation facilities in the area.

"By working with the community and the people involved in planning for the coastside, we hope to develop plans for transportation facilities that are compatible with whatever overall growth plan is finally accepted for the area," Parker said.

Team members include Parker and Joe Battaglini, design; Shin Kubota, environmental planning; Mike Ellis, urban planning; and Susan Cowan, press and publications.

Those interested in meeting with the team should contact District Design Engineer Ralph Thomas at the Division of Highways, 150 Oak St., San Francisco 94102.

Gun Arrest In Brisbane

A Santa Clara County parolee was arrested by Brisbane police Sunday and charged with possession of a concealed weapon after a loaded .45-caliber automatic was allegedly found on his person.

Officer David Allen reported he heard gunshots coming from the Brisbane lagoon area about p.m. On inspection Allen noticed Thomas Carl Dennison, 30, of Mountain View, in the area.

Dennison said he did not fire any gun, but told police he did have a loaded gun on his person. Officer Allen said.

The handgun had been stolen from the parked car of a Mountain View policeman, according to Brisbane police.

Dennison was charged with possession of a loaded firearm, possession of stolen property and possession of a concealed weapon.

Check Arrest

San Franciscan William Edson, 25, was booked by San Bruno police Saturday and charged with attempting to pass a stolen payroll check. The incident occurred, police said, at LaDora Liquors, 604 W. San Bruno Ave.

'Barrel Full of Pennies' At Hillbarn

"A Barrell Full of Pennies," an American family comedy by John Patrick, opens June 29 at Hillbarn Theater in Foster City, to run Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 through August 4 with a cast of three men, three women, six dogs, one rabbit, one mouse, seven canaries and a duck.

The roles of the rabbit and the mouse have been filled, but walk-on appearances for dogs, canaries and duck are open for casting. Anyone interested is invited to call Susan McNair, production manager, at Hillbarn Theater.

Animals and humans are all the family of Adonis Samaritan, soft-hearted New York taxi driver, played by Joe Cryns, who is familiar to San Francisco and Coastside audiences for his roles in "The Odd Couple" with Jack Aronson and "Ladies in Retirement" with the Pacifica Spindrift Players, where next fall he will direct "Gaslight."

Mina Samaritan, who calls herself Mrs. Atlas from having to share her husband's accumulated burdens, will be Sally (Mrs. William) Nemoyten, newcomer to Hillbarn and to the Peninsula. A Foster City resident since last September, she has a background of amateur theater experience.

The Samaritans' daughter Alicia will be Roberta McNair, who played her first role at Hillbarn at the age of five. Since then, she has worked on dozens of productions. She is chairman of Hillbarn's membership committee for the coming year.

Cousin Lu and Uncle Nemo, who share the Samaritan domicile, are Katina Politz and Frank Burke. She was seen most recently as Yente the Matchmaker in Hillsdale High's "Fiddler on the Roof," directs the Foster City Children's Theater and is leisure service clerk for Foster City's Parks and Recreation Department.

Burke, with a background of experience with the Millbrae Players, has been an assistant over the years to Sam Rolph, technical director.

Bob Burns, a newcomer to Hillbarn, after a hiatus of 8 years from theatre activity, will play Alvin Alvin, newcomer to the Samaritan household.

Mark Vincenti is stage manager and animal trainer, with an animal-loving crew of Betty Sinclair, Don Grant, Ruth Castle, Liz Van Houten, Carolyn Eichler and Liz Gee.

John Scott Carter, Karen Robinson and Tom Finkemeier handle lights and sound. Will Hogan is the voice of the loquacious radio commentator.

In the absence of Rolph, who is on vacation, Jim Sibbet is in charge of set construction, assisted by Norma Gruman, Ron Lau, Dick Lee and Clay Miller. Robert Brauns directs.

SSF Woman Heads AAA

Mrs. William Hamilton of South San Francisco was installed recently as president of the American Association of University Women. Mrs. George Thanos is the outgoing president of the San Bruno branch and took the position of first vice president.

Other elected officers are Mrs. Nicholas Kleszczewski, second vice president; Miss Thelma Passo, recording secretary; Mrs. Allen Hamilton, corresponding secretary; Mrs. John Thomas, treasurer; Mrs. Donald Barnhart, parliamentarian; Mrs. George Argeris, cultural interests chairman; Mrs. Dave Depew, education chairman; and Mrs. Jean Nelson, international relations chairman.

Topics for the coming year's study, voted on by the membership, will be "Media: Issues in Communications;" and "Women: Searching for Self."

JOE CRYNS, Pacifica actor and director, plays opposite Sally Nemoyten of Foster City in "A Barrel Full of Pennies," the John Patrick comedy which opens June 29 at Hillbarn Theater in Foster City to play Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. through August 4.

Troop 369 Has Court Of Honor

Daly City's Troop 369, sponsored by the Skyline Plaza Merchants, celebrated an outstanding period of individual advancement and achievement at a recent court of honor.

Formal induction ceremonies were conducted by the troop's leadership corps for scouts Bill Guzman, Mike Hyde and Jim Schumacher, and the Tenderfoot scout award was presented to Brian Watson.

Second Class scout rank was awarded Jon Rosendall and first class badges were presented to David Richwood, David Rosendall, Trippy Sliter, Mark Spiegel and Louis Tinsley.

Scouts Dana Bryan and Mike Dittmore were honored with Star scout awards and Life scout recognition also went to Bryan.

Eagle scouts Rich Bagnall, Ken Boasso and Bob Bryan were honored for further advancement with presentation of their Bronze Eagle Palms.

Recognition for merit badges earned during the past six months went to Rich Bagnall, nature, animal industry, world citizenship, scholarship and stamp collecting; Ken Boasso, coin collecting, world citizenship, scholarship, firemanship and photography; Dana Bryan, personal fitness, athletics, citizenship in the nation and community, drafting, woodwork, reading, safety, scholarship, firemanship, swimming, dog care, home repairs and sports; Bob Bryan, life saving, nature, home repairs, dog care, sports, public speaking, chemistry and atomic energy;

Mike Burns, drafting, woodwork, athletics, citizenship in community, personal fitness, first aid, sports, scholarship and swimming; Mike Dittmore, reading, cooking, camping and scholarship; Steve Hauschildt, first aid; Phil Manchester, scholarship and journalism; Jay Pierce, camping, safety, journalism and leatherwork; Kirt Stadler, reading; Glenn Stutesman, personal fitness; and Brian Watson, first aid.

Warrants for troop officer service were presented to Rich Bagnall, Ken Boasso, Bob Bryan, Mike Burns, Mike Dittmore, Martin Dreiling, Steven Hauschildt, Phil Manchester, Jay Pierce, F. J. Pratt, Maxie Santiago, Mike Schumacher, Kirt Stadler, Glenn Stutesman and Louis Tinsley.

Serra District Vice Chairman Bob Colclough presented the district's award for superior advancement and the National Camping Award to Scoutmaster Ray Boasso and Committee Chairman Bill Schumacher distributed adult recognition certificates and welcomed newly appointed Assistant Scoutmaster Martin Dreiling.

DC Library Seeks Help

The Daly City Public Library, with the help of volunteers from the community, supplies the patients at St. Francis Heights Convalescent Hospital with books, periodicals, reading stands, magnifying glasses and records. These materials are made possible by federal grant obtained through San Mateo County.

In addition to providing this service to hospital patients, many convalescents are served in their own homes. Chairman Mike Stratton reports that all those who work in this program, including drivers, material deliverers and readers, find this volunteer work rewarding.

Anyone interested in becoming a library volunteer or who desires library materials delivered to the home should telephone Edward Cavellini at the library, 992-2414, or Mrs. Vin Stratton, 755-6573.

Women of Moose Meet

Women of the Moose will have an open meeting at 8 p.m., July 10 at the Moose lodge, 7535 Mission St., Daly City, under auspices of the College of Regents. The college is co-workers who have served as senior regents and have made all credits and honors for the chapter.

The College of Regents is the third degree and those qualified may wear the cap and gown. This honor is given only at Mooseheart, Ill. After the first year a tassel is changed from green to red.

Mrs. Andrew Pappas will have her tassel changed. After four years as a collegian they receive a red stole.

Mrs. Dale Wagner will be invested with her stole at the altar by a collegian.

Caps and gowns will be worn for this meeting. Those taking office are Senior Regent Mrs. Jack Haverlock, Junior Regent Mrs. Allan Fisher, Jr. Grad Regent Mrs. Dan Gresham, Chaplain Mrs. Dale Wagner, Recorder Mrs. Tony Guerrazi, Treasurer Mrs. Dan Keney, and Assistant Guide Mrs. Joseph Fah. Guide will be Past Deputy Grand Regent Mrs. Gino Belluomini.

New chairman for the regents for 1973-74 will be Mrs. Fah. A special meeting is each month.

Louanne Heath

Among the very newest members of the Daly City Rotary Club who will be attending the dinner party and installation of officers tonight at Nick's Rock-Away will be John Bandros.

Bandros, the owner of the Westlake French Cleaners, became a member of the club exactly one week ago today thus becoming part of the group just in time to enjoy the delightful social gathering tonight and to help staff the Rotary's Fireworks booth which opens tomorrow morning at 10 a.m.!

Dave Macabee, fireworks booth chairman, reports that the booth will be supplied with a wide variety of packaged fireworks assortments as well as individual items. The club has set up shop on Alemany boulevard right across from the Westlake Shopping Center and will have members on hand to sell each day from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. through July 4.

THERE WILL BE a little friendly competition in the fireworks business. While the Rotary sells its wares on the north side of the shopping center the Westlake Catholic Men and the Westlake Catholic Women of Our Lady of Mercy Parish will have their traditional red, white and blue striped tent up on the corner of Southgate and Lake Merced boulevard, at the southern edge of the Westlake Shopping Center, stocked with a staggering variety of Red Devil fireworks.

Mrs. James McCann, publicity chairman of the event, reports that John Kachura, fireworks sale chairman, has items ranging from 10 cents to assortments costing $10.

Volunteers will open the tent at 10 a.m. tomorrow morning and sales will continue daily through July 4 from 10 a.m. until 9 p.m.

FOR THE AMATEUR theater enthusiasts who haven't as yet discovered the talented group which calls itself the Spindrift Players, this weekend offers an excellent opportunity for some happy surprises.

Lovely ladies and handsome leading men abound in this group of talented thespians and they have been working long hours to assemble, rehearse and produce what is becoming one of the perennial favorites, Barefood in the Park, by Neil Simon.

The show, which opens Friday at 8:30 p.m. in the Oddstad Center, Oddstad Park on Crespi drive in Pacifica, will run for three weekends. The first performances will be Friday and Saturday of this week with subsequent presentations on July 6 and 7 and July 13 and 14.

For those who don't know the story: After a six-day honeymoon, a new lawyer (who has just won his first case — 6 cents in damages!) and his bride move into a sixth floor, high rent, walk up that the bride has selected for their first home. Like all newlyweds they face problems, their furniture hasn't arrived, there is no heat. The skylight has a hole in it and her mother suddenly appears for a surprise visit. With things in their own apartment somewhat topsy turvy they begin "enjoying" some other neighbors' problems too. Upstairs, in the attic, there lives an outlandish gourmet who must climb across a ledge and scurry up a ladder to reach his apartment. The lives of all become entwined in a hilarious web on complications and situations and the play races through three acts before the viewer has time to catch his breath.

Kathy McIntyre and Cary Nelson play the young couple Corrie and Paul Bratter; Peggy Fraga plays Corrie's mother, Mrs. Banks; J. Stuart McIntyre plays the gourmet, Mr. Velasco; and Bill Crull and Warren Gabrielli play the telephone repairman and the delivery man.

For additional information about Barefoot in the Park or the Pacifica Sprindrift Players, call Robert Southworth, 355-6735 or Berneice Olson, 355-4638.

Tickets, costing $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for students, are sold at the door before each performance.

FRIENDS OUTSIDE are highly elated by the community response to their first rummage sale held recently at the Redeemer's Lutheran Church in South San Francisco.

The sale was staged to raise money for camperships to send the children of men and women who are in jail or prison to Westminster Woods for a week this summer and Mrs. Louise Enberg, executive director of the local chapter, reports that the proceeds exceeded $1,000.

Cost per child for camperships is slightly under $60, and the sale will provide the major source of financial support for the camp program, Mrs. Enberg explained.

Additional money is still needed if all the eligible children in this section of the ay Area are to be helped. Donations, tax deductable are accepted in the Friends Outside Office, Nineteenth avenue at Euclyptus drive in San Francisco.

WINNERS IN the recent Serramonte Fence Painting contest have been announced along with the list of prizes awarded entrees. Nell Norton

Good Morning, good cooks.

And a good way to start this morning is with a recipe for a delicious stew for tonight. This recipe has the basic stew ingredients and adds a few extras to guessie up the dish with spices and wine.

SPANISH STEW

1 pound stew meat, cut in cubes
3 slices bacon, diced
1 large onion, sliced
1 clove garlic, minced
¼ teaspoon sage
1 small bay leaf, crushed
¼ teaspoon marjoram
½ teaspoon paprika
2 large tomatoes, diced
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 cup beef bouillon
1-3 cup white wine
1 teaspoon salt
1-3 cup sliced pimiento-stuffed olives
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
4 medium potatoes, cut in quarters

Using a large heavy skilled or Dutch-oven, combine the one-pound stew beef, three slices diced bacon, one large onion, one garlic clove and cook over moderate heat until beef is browned on all sides. Add the one-fourth teaspoon each sage and marjoram, one crushed bay leaf, one-half teaspoon paprika, two diced tomatoes, two tablespoons vinegar, one cup bouillon, one-third cup wine and one teaspoon salt. Mix well.

Cover and cook over low heat for one hour, stirring occasionally. Add the one-third cup sliced olives, two tablespoons parsley and four quartered potatoes, stir. Cover and cook over low heat about 40 minutes longer, stirring occasionally.

DEAR, DEAR, there was an error in last week's recipe for Jumbo Cartwheels. I've found that it's more efficient to repeat the whole recipe rather than put in just the correction. This has an added benefit, anyone who missed these yummy cookies last week will be able to pick up the recipe today.

JUMBO CARTWHEELS

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon baking soda
1 cup butter, softened
2 cups firmly-packed brown sugar
2 eggs
1 tablespoon water
1½ teaspoons grated orange rind
1½ cups granola (oatmeal type cereal)
½ cup chopped nuts
1 6-oz. package Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In bowl combine the two cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, three-fourths teaspoon baking soda; set aside. In large mixing bowl, combine one cup butter and two cups brown sugar, beat until creamy. Add the two eggs and beat well. Blend in the one and one-half teaspoons grated orange rind and one tablespoon water. Add the flour mixture and mix well. Stir in the one and one-half cups granola, one-half cup nuts and 6 ounces chocolate morsels.

Drop by rounded tablespoons 3-inches apart, on lightly greased cookie sheets. Bake at 350 degrees about 12 minutes. Makes 3 dozen large cookies.

TO FINISH off today's offering I want to share a sandwich recipe that lives up to its name.

GREAT GRILLED SANDWICHES

¼ pound bologna, finely chopped
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
½ cup finely chopped celery
Salad Dressing
8 whie bread slices
4 slices Pasteurized Process Swiss Cheese Slices

Combine the fourth pound bologna, two hard cooked eggs, half cup celery and enough salad dressing to moisten; mix lightly. For each sandwich cover bottom slice of bread with bologna mixture. Top with cheese slice and second slice of bread. Spread outside of sandwich with salad dressing. Grill on both sides until lightly browned. Four sandwiches.

'Barefoot' Opens Friday

The Pacifica Spindrift Players production of Neil Simon's comedy "Barefoot in the Park" will open at Oddstad Park Friday evening.

After a six-day honeymoon a new lawyer (who has just won his first case — six cents in damages) and his bride move into a sixth floor high-rent walk-up she has chosen.

One of his problems is that in order to get into his apartment he must climb across a ledge and up a ladder. The play takes off from this point through three acts.

Kathy McIntyre and Gary Nelson play the young couple, Corie and Paul Bratter; Peggy Fraga plays Corrie's mother, Mrs. Banks; J. Stuart McIntyre plays the upstairs neighbor, Mr. Valesco, and Bill Crull and Warren Gabrielli play the telephone repairman and the delivery man.

"Barefoot" continues June 30 and July 6, 7, 13 and 14. All performances are at 8:30 p.m. and tickets will be available at the door. Oddstad Park is in the 1100 block of Crespi Drive in Pacifica.

D.C. Plans Rec Dances

"Brotherhood" will play at the War Memorial Community Center June 29 from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. as the Daly City Recreation Department kicks off its summer '73 dance program for high school age teens. The cost is $1.

"Brotherhood" features a variety of rock and Latin sounds with some original pieces.

Dances are also set at the War Memorial for July 21 and August 17 with top local entertainment to be featured.

Other recreation opportunities for high school age youth features swim nights July 18 and August 1. Special trips are scheduled for Point Reyes June 30 and Santa Cruz Beach and boardwalk July 14.

Pacifica Sets 'Fun Night' At Cow Palace

A Pacifica "family night" has been scheduled for Disney on Parade Sunday at the Cow Palace. Cost for this special Pacifica night is $3 for children or adults. This fee includes bus transportation, parking and reserved seats for the entire Pacifica party.

Space is limited to the first 150 to turn in permission slips and money to their recreation leaders. Thursday is the last day to sign up between 1 and 4:30 at Ortega, Sanchez, Linda Mar, Pedro Valley, Crespi, Vallemar, Sharp Park, Pacific Manor, Fairmont and Westview playgrounds. Busses leave these schools at 4:30 p.m. and return at 9:30 p.m.

SIGNUPS FOR third, fourth, fifth and sixth grade summer leagues ends Friday at playgrounds for boys' soccer and girls' kickball. There will be northern and southern divisions with a city championship game the week of August 13.

Signups are being taken for co-rec softball for seventh and eighth graders at all playgrounds. Games will be played with a minimum of five girls on each team. League starts Friday, July 6, with a north-south championship game August 2, followed by a game August 9 with the Daly City chamos.

MOTHER GOOSE WEEK will include a trip to Oakland Fairyland July 5 from 10:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Buses will leave Westview, Fairmont, Sharp Park, Pacific Manor, Vallemar, Pedro Valley, Crespi, Linda Mar, Sanchez and Ortega. The trip is open to boys and girls from seven to 13 years of age for $1.25, which covers transportation and admission. Permission slips may be obtained from recreation leaders and should be returned to them July 3, before 4:30 p.m.

THE J-TEEN PROGRAM will start forming clubs at Vallemar, Westview, Pedro Valley and Pacific Manor playgrounds soon. The clubs will be open to Pacifica students going into the seventh or eighth grades this fall. Music, games, cookouts, dances, arts and crafts and a co-rec softball league with a championship game with the Daly City Recreation Department will be included.

Drop-ins start at Westview and Pedro valley June 29 and at Pacific Manor and Vallemar on July 6 and will meet every other Friday for the summer.

Mary's Help Extends Offer of 'Tele-Care'

An average of four million telephone calls are made each week in the San Francisco area —calls made for pleasure, business or information.

Last week one of these calls was received by a San Francisco woman in a time of need and it may have saved her life.

The elderly woman is a member of Tele-Care, a community service offered free of charge by Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City. Tele-Care is designed especially for people who live alone — widows and widowers, senior citizens, shut-ins — anyone whose mobility is curtailed and whose contacts with others are few.

Through Tele-Care, such individuals receive a telephone call once a day, including weekends and holidays, by a Mary's Help volunteer. The volunteer checks to make sure the person is well and that nothing is wrong.

One day last week Mrs. William Lindsay, Tele-Care chairman phoned her Tele-Care members as usual between 9 a.m. and 12 noon.

That particular day, however, wasn't a normal one for the San Francisco woman. During the night she had become desperately ill and when the call came through in the morning she needed help.

Mrs. Lindsay alerted an alternate caller, a neighbor of the woman's who has keys to her home, and the neighbor immediately went to the woman's aid. Once there she summoned an ambulance and the woman was transported to an emergency hospital in San Francisoco.

After being seen by a physician at the emergency hospital, the woman was transferred to another San Francisco hospital where she is presently resting comfortably, according to her daughter.

Mary's Help volunteers contact approximately 30 Tele-Care members every day, according to Mary McCoy, director of volunteer services. The service is available in foreign languages as well as in English.

Tele-Care is open to anyone who can benefit from the service. To register for Tele-Care or for further information on the program, one should contact the volunteer office at Mary's Help, 992-4000, ext. 160.

Pack 259 Give Awards

Cub Scout Pack 259 of Colma recently had a final meeting until fall.

Awards were given to:

Den 1, Derek Cota, bear; Greg Yannazzo, bear.

Den 2, George Condon, denner cord.

Den 3, Tom Best, wolf; Ben Brussel, wolf; Jimmy Payne, wolf; Raymie Farnsworth, wolf; and Joey Condon, wolf.

Den 5 had a display of plants and each cub explained what he was growing and how he had planted it.

Candlelight ceremonies were held for outgoing Mitchel Wu, Steve King and Ruben Villar who are going into Boy Scout Troop 259. Each cub was given a framed award plaque that had all the awards they had earned as cubs.

All den mothers were presented with bouquets of roses for their work during the year with the dens. Committee members were given certificates of appreciation and Al Leong, cubmaster, and George Condon were singeld out for their work in keeping the pack going efficiently.

The picnic was over the last weekend and was a huge success. The Pack fathers did all the cooking of hamburgers for all the boys and there were volleyball games, baseball games and the tug of war between Cubs and moms and the fathers. There even was an egg-tossing contest, with Cubs and their moms as the contestants. Messy but lots of fun. The Scout-o-Rama ticket salesman awards were given out: Ben Brussell, 1st; Marvin Castro, 2nd; and Rory Arnott, 3rd.

The month's awards were handed out to:

Den 1: Alex Lippi, Bear and G-bear; Kurt Zevas S-bear.

Den 2: George Condon, S-bea.

Den 3: Ben Brussell, S-wolf; Raymie Farnsworth S-wolf. Webelos: Rory Arnott, Athlete pin.

Pacifica Rec Trip to Park

To kick off the 1973 summer scene the Pacifica Park, Beach and Recreation Department is sponsoring a community center trip to Memorial Park, near Pescadero. The trip is open to Pacifica boys and girls between ages eight and 14. Permission slips may be obtained from the nearest community center recreation leader and returned to them no later than Tuesday, June 26, at 4:30 p.m.

This first big trip will be Wednesday, June 27. Buses leave at 10 a.m. and return at 5:30 p.m. The cost includes bus transportation, admission to the park, swimming, refreshments and play day prizes.

Further information may be obtained from recreation leaders at Ortega, Pedro Valley, Sharp Park, Sanchez, Crespi, Pacific Manor, Fairmont, Linda Mar, Vallemar and Westview.

SSF Boy, 13, Burned Over Half of Body

A 13-year-old South San Francisco boy was in critical condition today in the burn unit of St. Francis Hospital, San Francisco, with second-degree burns on 50 per cent of his body.

Dennis Rodrigues, of 2495 Tara Lane, was first taken to Peninsula Hospital, Burlingame, about 4:16 p.m., yesterday, officials said.

According to South San Francisco Fire Department reports, the lad, along with a brother, Tony, 15, and an uncle, David Guardado, 15, came upon a gallon container of duplicating fluid (ethel alcohol) at Westborough Junior High School.

Officials said the youths took the container to the vicinity of the Westborough ball diamond, apparently intent on experimenting with fire.

According to the officials, young Dennis, after an initial fire had been started, began squirting more fluid on the blaze.

It was reported that while doing so, the flame from the fire came back up to the can and it exploded, knocking out the bottom of the can and dousing Dennis in flame.

His two campanions, fire officials said, immediately knocked him down and ripped off his clothes. They took him home, and Guardado ran to the Westborough fire station to report the incident.

Fire officials said they responded to the home to find Dennis laying naked on a hardwood floor. Officials said he was unconscious during the ambulance ride to the hospital.

Officials said Tony Rodrigues also sustained burns on his hands and wrist, but Peninsula Hospital had no record of admission.

Despite Judges

Court Merger Plans Go Ahead

Although San Mateo County's Municipal Court judges now oppose consolidation of the three Municipal Court districts into a single district by a margin of 8 to 1, County Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald said he intended to introduce the ordinance soon to effect the consolidation.

The judges have indicated they now feel that there are too many unanswered questions concerning the effects of consolidation.

Fitzgerald said he feels it is "because they don't want to give up their little kingdoms".

Representatives of the Board of Supervisors, the judges, and members of the North County Council of Cities met yesterday in San Bruno in an effort to iron out the situation.

However, the meeting ended only with the assurance that County Mgr. M. D. Tarshes will prepare a list of advantages and goals for consolidation so it will be determined what has to be done to devise a system to achieve the goals.

Northern District Municipal Court Judge Jose F. DeLarios said there is a feeling among the judges that there presently is a good workable system which they do not want to jeopardize by a change when it is not known what the change will accomplish.

He noted, for instance, that there is some concern by north county cities that consolidation will mean centralization, with greater expense and inconvenience in transporting of prisoners.

Southern District Municipal Court Judge Wilbur Johnson, who stated he is the "1" in the 8 to 1 vote opposing consolidation, reported that there is some fear that consolidation will "immediately reduce" services to north county cities.

He mentioned, for instance, that there is concern that criminal proceedings would be held primarily in the south county courts because they are convenient to the county jail.

Judge Johnson noted that there have been assurances by county officials that this would not be the case, the judges feel this is not acceptable and would like to see state legislation to authorize the consolidation amended to provide legal assurances this "won't and can't occur."

DeLarios reported, however, that he has been informed that the status of pending legislation is such that amendments will not be accepted during the current legislative session in Sacramento.

The switch by the judge comes after agreement to the consolidation proposal last year and subsequent introduction of the necessary legislation. The consolidation presently is scheduled to become effective July 1, 1974.

County officials proposed the consolidation as a means of economy and uniformity in court procedures. Tarshes has noted that the court can have a single administrator and a single presiding judge, as well as provide for utilization of little-used courtrooms. It also would provide for a single budget item in the county budget, rather than three seperate budget matters.

Also, there is the possibility that the county will be faced with the prospect of having to provide new courtrooms in the Central District Municipal Court area at a cost of up to $2 million, if consolidation is not effected.

Fitzgerald disputed the request by the judges for a list of goals and accomplishments. He said these were given to the judges months ago.

"The judges apparently favored the consolidation initially because it was attached to a measure by the supervisors, and the judges joined the bandwagon," Fitzgerald said.

"Now they feel they've so-far stopped the legislation to effect consolidation," he added.

Fitzgerald noted that Assemblyman Louis Pappan, D-Daly City, will not introduce any legislation regarding the consolidation until an agreement is reached at the local level.

An Up, Down Day for S.M. Jail Visitor

Willie Rosatti of San Mateo surely had his "ups" and "downs" starting at 1 a.m. yesterday.

Sheriff's Deputy Francis Gagnon tells the story:

Rosatti, 48, of 247 Killdeer Court, entered the main lobby of the Hall of Justice in Redwood City, and encountered deputies at the complaint shelter. He called them "pigs," then proceeded to take the elevator to the fourth-floor jail.

Moments later, Rosatti returned, and left the building, but returned and again allegedly became abusive with deputies.

Rosatti once more entered the elevator, which from midnight to 7 a.m. is monitored to stop only at the fourth and first floors.

Deputies heard the "emergency" ring, and soon discovered that Rosatti had stopped the elevator at the third floor, and forced open the doors.

But minutes later, he forced open the stairwell door at the first floor. Deputies dragged him to the fourth-floor jail and booked him on charges of being drunk in public and resisting arrest.

Quipped Asst. Sheriff Eugene E. Stewart, "They should have done that in the first place."

WORK HAS STARTED on the $1.9 million Knowles Avenue improvement project between the Bay Area Rapid Transit District station and Mission Street. When completed the road will be eight lanes, with a green belt separating through traffic from side roads. The first shovel of dirt on the project was turned last week during brief ceremonies by local, county and regional and state officials. It is anticipated the project will be completed at the same time BART trains roll into Daly City — in about five months. Turning the first spadeful of dirt is, third from right, Mayor Anthony Giammona and, second from left, Federal Highway Department official Robert Young. Looking on from the seat of a giant grader in background is Councilmen McRobert Stewart, left, and Victor Kyriakis, while below, left to right, participating in the event is Tom Lammers, district engineer for the State Division of Highways; City Treasurer Tony Zidich; Young; Giammona; Councilman Bud Lycett; and BART Director William Reedy. DEATHS

D.C. Leader Gaggero Dies

Anthony J. Gaggero, 64, Daly City insurance man and North County leader, died Friday at his home, 6 West Cavour Street, Daly City, after an illness.

Gaggero was a former mayor of Daly City, a director of the San Mateo County Fair Board for over 20 years, a one-time candidate for election to the San Mateo County Junior College District Board of Trustees, former president of the North County Sanitation District, a director of the Peninsula Memorial Blood Bank, the San Mateo County Crippled Children's and Adults' Society, a director of the San Mateo County Tuberculosis Association, and treasurer of the Children's Health Home of San Mateo.

He served on the county's Civil Service Commission for 10 years, until replaced in 1956 when former Supervisor Thomas Callan appointed another man to the Civil Service post.

Gaggero was a candidate for election to the County Board of Supervisors in 1952 and had been active in the American Red Cross.

He was a native of San Mateo County, and began his public service with duty on the San Mateo County Grand Jury in 193.5

Survivors will include his wife, Eleanor; a son, Robert, and two daughters, Elaine and Joyce.

HELEN KIEFER

Funeral services were held today in Olympia, Wash., for Mrs. Helen Kiefer, 66, a resident of San Bruno since 1944. She died Friday morning in a Washington hospital.

A native of Baker, Ore., Mrs. Kiefer and her husband, Henry A. Kiefer, a warrant officer in the U.S. Marine Corps, spent several years traveling with the military.

They settled in San Bruno nearly 30 years ago. The Kiefers went to Olympia two months ago to be with their son.

Mrs. Kiefer was formerly a legal secretary in the office of Attorney Harold Elkins.

She was a member of the VFW Post 2517 Auxiliary and served as their chaplain.

Mrs. Kiefer was a member of the St. Bruno Catholic Church. Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, Robert, in Olympia, and two grandchildren.

A Catholic chapel service was held in Olympia today. The Rev. Blaise Feeney of St. Michael's Catholic Church in Olympia officiated. Burial took place in Willamette National Cemetery in Portland, Ore.

The family prefers contributions to the American Cancer Society.

ROSE CHRISTINA RAWSON

Rose Christina Rawson, 63, of 1419 Carlos Ave., Burlingame, died yesterday at Peninsula Hospital after an illness.

She was a native of Chicago, Ill., and had lived in Burlingame for 20 years.

Mrs. Rawson is survived by her husband, Calvin Rawson; a daughter, Mrs. Frances McNeilly of Burlingame; a brother, Rudolph Lizalek of San Bruno; sister, Mrs. Alvina Campbell of San Francisco; niece, Mrs. Barbara Hicks; son-in-law, Robert J. McNeilly; four grandchilren, and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at Crosby-N. Gray & Co. Mortuary in Burlingame tomorrow, starting at 1 p.m. Interment will be in Cypress Lawn Memorial Park.

Meet on Improvement Plans

Members of the San Bruno Downtown Beautification Committee will meet Thursday morning to review the contents of a letter that will be sent to all property owners and tenants of downtown San Mateo Avenue.

The letter was drafted by City Mgr. Gerald Minford and Chamber of Commerce Mgr. Gerald Chandler.

In addition to giving reasons for the proposed beautification of the street, the letter includes financial facts, proposed method of financing, a breakdown on cost per front foot of a typical property, a procedural timetable for completion of the project and a July 11 meeting announcement to further discuss the proposal.

According to the committee timetable, the letter is scheduled to be sent out June 29. In the meantime, the plans will be presented to the city's planning commissioners at their July 2 meeting. Later that week the financial aspects are scheduled to be taken up with the city's capital improvements committee. Then on July 9, the proposal will be brought before the city council, allowing total "official" exposure prior to the July 11 meeting with owners and tenants.

There is a half-million dollar ceiling on the project. Of this amount, it is anticipated that the city (through gas tax funding) will participate up to $250,000, with some form of assessment district affecting owners and-or tenants over a period of several years to pay the other $250,000.

Al Race, executive with the Bank of America, suggested that maybe larger firms (such as his bank) "may be able to come up with a few more dollars" than the small merchant to help defray beautification costs.

"I think this letter is all-important," said Minford in stressing the need to provide as much information on the proposal without being confusing.

The city's participation is offered in conjunction with the necessity of doing underground pipe repairs along San Mateo Avenue.

According to Minford, the city will have to do repair work regardless, and without a beautification project, "it would be patchwork only." He noted that street work is a major portion of the proposed project.

Harry Costa, owner and tenant, and a member of the committee, said that this proposal is "do or die" as far as attempts to upgrade the street are concerned. Several other attempts to improve and beautify the street have failed, primarily because of disinterest by absentee landlords.

However, according to Chandler, there are several possible alternate ways to proceed. It can be done through an owner assessment, or with a tenant assessment, says Chandler.

Pacifica Project Referendum Seen

By JOHN CURRY

As expected, the Pacifica City Council last night upheld an appeal that would allow the 805-unit Rockaway Highlands housing project to proceed and found itself faced with a referendum petition the moment after the vote was taken.

The 336-acre parcel along the ridges above Vallemar has been the subject of a year-long battle between Challenge Development Co. and local citizens, the latter abetted by the city planning commission which had denied amendments of the section maps, or rezoning, twice.

Last night was the second time the council has overriden the planners and relations between the two groups reportedly haven't been good. Rumor has it the council wants to fire some or all of the commission, alleging it has become too oriented toward "no-growth."

Now the United Citizens for Pacifica has promised to continue the fight. Richard Hough of UCP told the council last night that his group supports the commission, "the best in the city's history," and that the petition would be circulated immediately.

A pamphlet distributed last night said the committee has until July 25 to collect 1,500 valid signatures, or 10 per cent of the city's registered voters, to get the matter on a ballot. Indications were that the referendum vote might be consolidated with a water district election this fall.

Hough's statement called Rockaway Highlands "the . . . straw that's going to break the back of the Pacifica camel" and to residents will mean ". . . ever higher taxes, increased commuter jams on the Coast Highway and environmental degradation. Our valleys are gone; now the ridgetops are to be covered, and we say 'no'!"

The council vote was 3-1, with Councilwoman Grace McCarthy the dissenter. Voting yes were Mayor Aubrey Lumley and councilmen Don Halverson and Harland Minshew.

Councilman Stan Farber, a pharmacy owner now seeking to buy a parcel of land from Challenge in another part of Pacifica, left the council chamber during the discussion and vote.

City Atty. John Sherman replied to an audience question about Farber's absence that he had advised the councilman that if he felt it best to abstain he was "free to do so."

Rockaway Highlands would house some 2,100 persons. The UCP brochure said its construction would involve removal of a million cubic yards of earth, with 50 to 60 feet of the ridge tops cut away. This is not in keeping with the city's hillside preservation ordinance, UCP claims.

The rezoning would be from agricultural and single-family residential to planned unit development.

E.P.A. School Hit by Two Arson Fires

The Ravenswood City School District's Costano School at 2695 Fordham St., East Palo Alto, was extensively damaged by two arson fires within a 14-hour period Sunday and Monday.

Menlo Park Fire District reports that the two fires did a total of $56,000 damage to the school, most of it to the resource center containing all of the books, records and equipment for the district's student testing program.

Fire Dept. Batt. Chief Ronald Taylor and Deputy Sheriff Jerry Walker reported that in the first fire, which was reported shortly after 11 a.m. Sunday, it appeared that a window of the large resource center room had been broken and flammable material thrown inside and set afire.

Taylor said that damage was extensive to the room, and that there was some smoke damage to other classrooms in the building. Most of the contents of the room were destroyed or extensively damaged.

The battalion chief estimated the loss at $35,000 to the building and $15,000 to contents.

Seven firemen were treated for smoke inhalation or minor injuries suffered in battling that fire and the second blaze, which was reported at 1:16 a.m. today.

Taylor reported that this morning's fire resulted after someone got on the damaged roof of the building, pried off plywood panels placed over the earlier burn holes, dropped the panels inside the building, poured some type of flammable liquid, probably gasoline, on the panels and set it afire.

The second fire finished destroying what little the first fire had left only partially damaged and flames spread up the wall into an adjacent classroom. Taylor estimated the loss from the second blaze at a total of $6,000.

A similar arson fire occurred in the same building two years ago, causing considerable damage, but not to the extent of the most recent fires.

A total of 15 firemen and five pieces of equipment responded to both fires.

Fire Lt. Ray Bastion was treated for smoke inhalation following the first fire, then suffered a second-degree burn on his left hand fighting the second blaze.

Three other firemen were injured in Monday morning's fire. They were Ray Abel, a wrenched left knee; Ralph Rawson, a slight dislocation of the right knee, and Dan Rivera, a second-degree burn on the right hand. Suffering smoke inhalation in the Sunday fire were Firemen Curtis Berger, Paul Young and Scott Bjorkquist.

Taylor said that none of the firemen required hospital treatment.

Eleven CHP Officers Are Transferred

Two sergeants in the Redwood City office of the California Highway Patrol are included in a total of 11 patrolmen involved in transfers in and out of the Redwood City area, Capt. Charles W. Wynn, commander of the local patrol unit reports.

Sgt. Floyd E. Eriksen, who has served in the Redwood City area for the past 14 years, is going to Ukiah, and Sgt. James D. Atkins, who has a total of five years in Redwood City as training officer and a sergeant since 1965, is being transferred to the newly created auto theft unit in San Francisco headed by Capt. Conrad Menzel, former commander of the Redwood City patrol area.

Patrolmen leaving Redwood City are Melvin Pratt, going to Contra Costa County; Patrolmen Thomas Pearson and Preston Roper, going to San Jose. All three have been in the local patrol unit for the past year.

New officers joining the Redwood City unit are Sgt. Joseph Gleadall, being transferred from San Francisco and a 21-year member of the CHP; Sgt. William E. Prewitt, recently promoted, who will begin his initial assignment as a sergeant in Redwood City; Jerry Tidwell and Douglas Wright, both transferring from Glendale, and Miles Godfrey and George Klein Jr., both recent graduates of the CHP academy in Sacramento.

Man Jailed After Crash Injures Six

An East Palo Alto man was to be arraigned in Southern District Municipal Court Monday on a charge of felony drunken driving resulting from a Saturday accident in which six persons, including four youngsters, were injured.

Highway Patrolman Steve Shero reported that a car driven by the defendant, Michael W. Whatley, 30, of 2265 Ralmar St., swerved across the center line on the East Bayshore frontage road just south of Clark Street and crashed into an oncoming car driven by James W. Johnson, 37, of 2683 Illinois St., East Palo Alto. The accident occurred at 12:15 p.m.

Shero said that Whatley and Johnson suffered minor cuts. Johnson's four children, Bernadette, 9; James, 8; Marc, 5, and Eric, 4, all suffered various degrees of facial cuts and were taken to Stanford Hospital for treatment.

Whatley, a truck driver, was booked at County Jail.

Cook Nabbed On Forgery After Chase

Philip C. Chervellera tried to make too much of a good thing, Redwood City police report.

A week ago, a man identified as Chervellera, 22, a cook, of 210 Winslow Street, passed a stolen payroll check in the amount of $132 at the Starlight Super Market near Five Points.

Thursday, Police Detective Lt. Roger Binkley said, Chervellera again appeared at the market and presented another check, in the amount of $134 to the same clerk, Sylvia Roggasch.

Mrs. Roggasch remembered Chervellera ad notified other employes. Three male clerks approached Chervellera, who ran from the store and dashed north on El Camino Real with the clerks in pursuit.

In the parking lot of Stickney's Restaurant, Chervellera suddenly stopped, pulled a knife and started waving it at his pursuers, Binkley related.

About that time, Policeman Guy Jackson, who was passing in his patrol car responding to the report of the check-passing effort, noticed the commotion and stopped. He took Chervellera into custody at gunpoint.

Chervellera was booked at County Jail on charges of assault with a deadly weapon, possession of a stolen credit card, forgery, possession of a forged check, passing a forged check and possession of stolen property.

Happy Birthday?

THIS COLUMN starts its eighth year today. That's a long time for this tired old reporter. We've seen other local columns and columnists come and go — mostly go. And we plod on, our two fingers hacking out word after word. Column after column. Needle after needle.

WE'D LIKE TO think we've made more friends than enemies with our words over the years, but we'll settle for a handful of devoted readers. We do know that there have been made some mighty devoted enemies. they did not like what we had to say. This column started as a sort of "What's Doing Around Town" sort of thing. You know, one long plug for those nice guys, our advertisers. But soon that sort of writing stuck in our craw and gradually the words created sentences that concerned what we felt were items of note on business, government and such. Often some of the things we said came back to haunt us in the form of sharp notes from the Boss.

IT'S NOT EASY to always play the game fairly, especially when the other guy often plays dirty. Most of the time we've made the grade. Other times, we're sorry to say, we have not! It's just as bad, worse, actually, to use the pen to smite persons who have no equal recourse. Even now we find it hard to walk the straight and narrow with our battery typewriter. Our only promise, after consuming all this space with such gibberish, is to endeavor to try harder — even though we are NOT second best.

WHAT A GREAT BIRTHDAY we celebrated Sunday at The Skyliner Restaurant in Daly City. Accompanied by several hundred persons, serenaded by a Mariachi band singing "Happy Birthday," and presented with a fancy box with a single broken candle burning brightly.

Inside the box was a broken pencil and two small slips of torn writing paper. The significance is apparent. Actually, the folks did not turn to help old Frank celebrate his (censored) birthday. They were there to help Stella and Victor Kyriakis celebrate the christening of their six-month-old daughter, Tina Victoria. She stole the show.

SOME FOLKS over in the East Bay are upset because they have to get their feline pets (cats) licensed. Cost is $5 and cat owners are sharpening their claws and baring their fangs over this new law. It's a pretty good law, I think. Why should only dog owners have to sell out money for licenses? With a tag around its neck, a cat can be returned to its rightful owner if it is caught (found)? digging up your back yard, trying to snag a fish in the back yard pool, or just sitting around howling at the moon.

PAULINE M. WILDS, secretary of the ODCPA (which stands for Original Daly City Protective Association) suggests, with the backing of her group, that a pedestrian walkway be included in the plans of the Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) station at Knowles Ave. The walkway would allow folks to cross over Knowles to a "row" shopping area, replete with restaurants, specialty stores, hobby and craft shops, etc., located along Junipero Serra Boulevard. It would also all BART riders from San Francisco and points east o come out to Daly City for a bit and mite o' fog. Not to mention those tired train riders leaving their cars parked and doing a little shopping before heading home. You people in City Hall listening?

AT LAST, SAN MATEO County Manager Marty Tarshes has replied to a letter sent by Mission Merchants Association president, Vince Merlo, concerning fines and forfeitures collected from Daly City.

We reminded a few county officials about their lack of promptness in responding to Merlo's question f why D.C. gets back only 76 per cent and South City gets 88 per cent from these fines even though Daly City reportedly has a higher percentage of fines and forfeitures. Merlo says his organization, which now enjoys a membership of 150 strong, promised to follow up the reasoning behind this county thinking.

GOT A LOOK AT Gellert Park the other day. Didn't particularly care for what I saw. Very unimaginative planning, for our money. All we could see was blacktop — a la shopping centers — level ground, and not much else. Why couldn't they have put in a few mounds of earth, some flower beds, trees, walkways, benches for the folks to take their kids for walks, or just a place to sit and read? Does everything Daly City does, recreation-wise, have to be basketball, tennis, baseball, blacktop and level? Frankly, our feeling is Daly City muffed yet another chance at building something different. Even Marchbanks Park utilizes the land better!

NOT TOO MUCH talk around about that audit report of the JESD. The silence is interpreted as a cautious position assumed those ready to pounce on Superintendent Frank Greenwood after the July 3 swearing-in ceremonies of school board Trustee Dave Parker. But even Parker, Mrs. Dorthy Adams and other past critics of Greenwood aren't saying much. Lot of tongue clucking. Nothing else. Time will tell!

The Post gives its columnists a great deal of latitude, offering its readers the benefit of knowledgeable, varying opinion. Their opinions are not necessarily those of The Post which addresses itself to its readers only through clearly marked editorials.

CRA Censures a Judge, Urges Redistrict Veto

By LINWOOD DAY

The Board of Directors of the California Republican Assembly concluded their three-day meeting in Burlingame yesterday by censuring a judge, urging a veto of the State Senate reapportionment bill, asking withdrawal of a sex education book, and declaring opposition to two federal measures—land planning and voter registration by mail.

In other resolutions, the CRA directors urged development of atomic energy and alternate sources of energy to meet the energy crisis and urged immediate construction of the Alaskan pipeline and resumption of offshore drilling to make the nation independent of foreign sources of fuel supply.

They also reaffirmed support of the Reagan tax limitation plan and commended and thanked the volunteers who helped place it on the November ballot.

The CRA opposed raising the national minimum wage, a measure now before President Nixon, as causing unemployment and thus being hard on unskilled young people and others of limited skills.

In the matter of censuring of a judge, the CRA resolution called the granting of probation to a criminal convicted of multiple counts of rape over an extended period of time, "a clear abuse of judicial discretion."

The directors then censured Judge Leland Lazarus and requested the Legislature to adopt measures to reduce judicial discretion in such cases.

The directors in asking withdrawal of the approval of the book for use in the public school system, declared that they found the book, "Human Sexuality," by Dr. James McCary "completely unacceptable."

They noted that the California Constitution prescribes "moral improvement" as a principal purpose of the public schools, that local public schools "can aid substantially in the development of sound individual codes of family life and sexual behavior."

The book, approved June 14 by the California Board of Education, the CRA resolution says, contains "many inaccuracies, exaggerations and material completely unacceptable for any seventh and eighth-grade students."

It alleged that unlawful practices such as prostitution "are promoted as glamorous and exciting occupations: many illustrations and diagrams are pornographic in nature: and normal behavior is neglected and belittled, while abnormal behavior is suggested as normal and desirable."

The CRA resolution on voter registration by mail, a measure now before the Congress, sees such a law as opening the door for voter fraud and violating states rights as outlined in the Constitution.

The land planning resolution notes that the Land Policy and Planning Assistance Act, Senate Bill 286, imposes federal control on the states, through federal assistance plans to those adopting it, that it ursurps control of city and county elected officials who would otherwise be responsible to the electorate in management and planning of land use.

In taking this position, the CRA followed a position urged by Sen. Carl T. Curtis, a ranking Republican on the Senate Agriculture and Forestry Committee, who addressed its banquet Saturday night.

Senator Curtis attacked the land planning bill in strong terms, suggested that the Watergate investigation was being used to cover it up by pre-empting the newspaper space and television time that normally might go to it, and said it would bring tyranny if it were adopted.

He quoted another senator as saying that all the landowner would have left to show for his land would be the title and the tax bill.

LETTERS

Editor, The Times:

It has taken only two meetings for our South San Francisco "New Council Majority" to make their first vindictive and idiotic move. Forcing the resignation of City Manager, Gale Dreisbach.

Yes, I said force! What else do you call it when the Council Majority doesn't have the nerve or the common decency to call the man into executive session and fire him? Why you just take away his management powers. And, this is just what they did Tuesday night when they voted 3 to 2 to take away his right to hire and fire department heads. Any man with the least amount of self-respect would resign when put in the position of having to direct department heads, but without the ultimate power to command respect. Now why is it an idiotic move?

Well, here were are, right in the middle of trying to complete the 1973-74 budget, we have no Assistant City Manager, no City Engineer or Head of Public Works, no Director of Parks and Recreation, no Deputy City Attorney, etc., etc., etc., and the new Council Majority chooses at this moment to force the resignation of the only available man that could keep things together until a more appropriate time.

Couldn't it wait until some of the above-mentioned major items were settled? Evidently not. And what was Mr. Borba's comment when asked about the resignation? "What, right in the middle of the Budget." This indicates the mentality of our new Council Majority.

Where is the "togetherness" our new Councilman, Terry Mirri, promised us during the campaign? Where is the "uniting" for the good of the City promised by all Councilmen the night of the swearing in of our fifth councilman? No, instead we continue down the disaster road of City Government in South San Francisco that has produced five City Managers in the last five years.

Gene Aiello, Tom McKenzie, Larry Rors, Gale Dreisbach, and now acting City Manager, John Noonan. All quit except Tom McKenzie, the best of the lot. He was fired by a past Council Majority.

Now, we have John Noonan who couldn't keep up with the job of City Attorney until Deputy City Attorney John Shaw was hired. Now that John Shaw has quit, Mr. Noonan is appointed acting City Manager so that he now has two jobs he can't handle.

Where do we go now? I think a very long wait before we find a City Manager desperate enough to take the job under these circumstances.

DONALD F. GAMMA,
South San Francisco.

Summer School Vacation Holds Hazards

Peninsula schools have now closed for the traditional summer vacation. Thousands upon thousands of children are beginning their summertime fun and freedom and we wish them joy of it. But the vacation period also means they will go into the streets and playgrounds where they are not found during most daylight hours when school is in session.

During the school year the more dangerous crossings are guarded by police, watchmen and student patrols. The hours of juvenile pedestrian and bicycle traffic are fixed and predictable.

During the summer, however, the safeguards are largely removed and motorists must be on watch at all times. Children having fun often forget to look out for themselves and may suddenly veer across streets, or from behind parked autos, without thinking. Their games, the pursuit of balls and toys, may take them unexpectedly into areas of danger.

In the vacation period drivers must be constantly on the alert to avoid the accidents and tragedies that can abruptly spoil fun and take lives.

There are other hazards, too, for children during the summer season. The National Safety Council says that the greatest single hazard is drownings.

The Peninsula has 10 times the number of private swimming pools it had 10 years ago and these are great attractions to young folk who will enter private properties for an unsupervised dip.

The council advises that parents should permit their children to swim only at properly lifeguarded pools and beaches. They should also forbid swimming when children are overtired or overheated, caution them against entering the water too soon after eating, and explain to them the dangers of "ducking" and other water frolics that can get out of hand.

A quiet talk with the youngsters as they begin their summer fun, warnings against over-exposure to the sun, the dangers of climbing, taking unauthorized and unsupervised hikes, and participating in the use of matches and other potentially hazardous play, could forestall years of regret.

The kids may think we are being over-cautious in laying stress on safety — but that does not matter.

What does matter is that we have to expect the unexpected from children during the summer season and it is well for them to be forewarned.

No effort to keep the youngsters safe will be wasted and such efforts may make the difference between fun and tragedy.

James Halley

U.S. Center Stays Out of Politics

The political center of America is presently lifting its nose at politics and temporarily abandoning the scene. This retirement is not dramatic: the change from deep slumber to cessation of all living functions never is.

Preoccupied with daily living, the drowsy American center has given politics and government little attention. Billboards, TV ads, the bold type on an occasional mail piece and a few brave words are all that have been allowed to seep through.

The man from the center loathes political organization, avoids meetings, and thinks primary elections are meant for someone else. Being the perfect sucker for Madison Avenue, he is the ultimate object of fund raising efforts. And his passivity has given the game away, again and again.

This apathy has created modern politics. For all that he will accept is the occasional intrusion of images, and these are designed by Madison Avenue, and its counterparts throughout the country, to deceive and delude him. If the center American ever really awakened, candidates would be forced from behind the false and expensive facade.

Perhaps the greatest mistake made by the center American is his abandonment of the nominating process. Unwilling to participate, he yields the field of battle to left and right. In June, the wingers nominate and in the fall, the massive center elects.

This is seen clearly on the day following the primary election. Up to that moment, many candidates with outlandish views do well by expressing their true feelings. Following that day, the rush begins toward the center. From left and right, the nominees come sprinting, each trying to look like a reasonable man, although many have already shouted their contempt for reasonableness, and now try to stand astride the center of the electorate.

What the center has never understood is that the endless meetings on camp chairs, the caucauses, the rallies, and the conventions are the path to power. They must realize that the young man with long hair and the little old lady with funny ideas are beating the hell out of them in election after election.

So comes Watergate. And the center, who have created the atmosphere of fund raising and image making walk away.

There is substantial evidence that the center has indeed departed. Recent elections, including several California special elections, and the Mayorality race in Los Angeles offer proof that the center is sitting it out.

So the script for political tragedy reads like this: center apathetic, left and right select candidates, candidates raise money, money buys image makers, image makers make images, center grasps for an illusion and captures a delusion. Center retreats and thereby guarantees that cycle will continue.

So citizens of the center, lift not your dainty noses — you are getting the kind of government on all levels that you deserve. You will get more and more and more of the same until you awaken.

THE MARQUEE

By Barbara Bladen

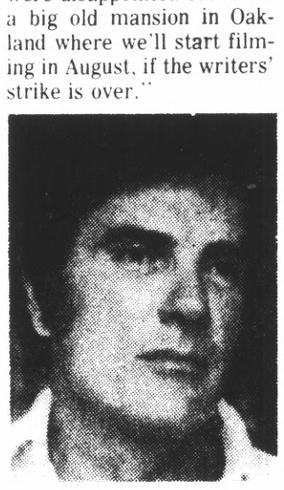
Hillsborough Turns Down Movie Company

Everyone is enamored with film stars except residents of Hillsborough, it would seem. Following the success of Tom Tryon's first novel, "The Other," which was on the New York Times' best seller list for six months, was translated into 13 foreign languages, is required reading in many high school and college classes, went into its ninth printing with 100,000 in hard cover and three million paperbacks . . . and was made into a film, he wrote a movie script titled "Mandarin Yellow" which he felt needed a San Francisco locale and historical background.

He'd been to a Sunday musicale at Chateau Remillard, the showplace mansion of Countess Lillian Dandini in Hillsborough and wanted it badly for the film, most of which takes place in and around the house.

"She was willing but in applying for permission from the town council, explaining that there would be no cops and robbers chases through the restricted streets and only a small cast and crew would be involved, the city fathers first said yes, then no. They said they didn't think the residents would like having a movie made in their community nor did they want a lot of people around the country knowing about the chateau.

"The whole thing took less than 10 minutes. We were disappointed but found a big old mansion in Oakland where we'll start filming in August, if the writers' strike is over."



TOM TRYON

The handsome young author who appeared in 20 films ("The Cardinal" was his best known) is having repeat success with his second novel, "Harvest Home" which is the Literary Guild selection and the biggest selling book they've had in the past three years. (Alfred Knopf, $7.95)

It's a Gothic horror story in the same supernatural genre of "The Other." There is good film material here but Tryon wouldn't want to do the film script. Nor does he care to act ever again.

"My agents have instructions never to tell me about an acting offer, no matter how good it is. I'm a writer with some interest in directing my own work. It's not that I'm bitter about my past career, but feel I was swindled by promises of things that didn't materialize, rather than victimized.

"I have a sense of my own position in things. People respect the written word. As an actor they hardly listen to you. I know I can be a good director because my sympathies are with the actors. It's just a tragedy that what is an art form is termed an industry."

He began "Harvest Home" as a film script but as it grew and the intrigues and plot got thicker, he saw it better as a novel.

"When it's sold, I won't want to direct. The enormity of it is too overwhelming with night shooting, a large cast of characters you'd have to keep straight and special effects. I'll leave that all to someone else.

"I worked closely with director Robert Mulligan on the film version of "The Other" but what was wrong with the finished version is what was wrong with the book. Once you know what has happened to the boy, the story goes on too long.

"What I've had to learn is that I work with word images and film is a realistic medium. People always ask me why I'm so fascinated by the supernatural. I can't really say. But a lot of people are fascinated by horse racing and I'm not. Actually horror stories are a torture to write."

His third novel is called "Lady" and is about a young boy growing up across the street from a woman 35 years his senior who is in love with her dead husband. A ghost story, of sorts.

Samuel Chandler

'Bernadette Black'

From the what's new department comes Clair Gabriel's story, "Bernadette Black."

It tells of Amy Wannamaker, a black, middle-class Catholic adolescent, who announces that she has seen a black woman in a vision. There follows all the investigation and treatments that the year, 1972, would produce. But after Amy seems cured, several people — black and white — who have emotional problems seek her help. The results are horrible as a white Catholic father of an artistic boy attempts to have her abducted and burned as a witch.

The second half of "Bernadette Black" dramatizes a diocesan investigation of Amy's claims. The chief investigator turns out to be the agnostic black psychiatrist who first examined her.

Slated for a July publication, "Bernadette Black" is being reviewed as a book to read.

RHODA LERMAN'S, "Call Me Ishtar," puts a new twist on an old theme. A beautiful, bawdy Babylonian Mother Goddess comes back to life and tries to cope with confusion of 20th Century law and love.

She becomes an average housewife in upstate New York. There she lives with the mythological archtypes: mother, maiden, harlot, wife. Through it all she comes through as both matronly and sexy, and a tramp.

"Call Me Ishtar" has recently been published and is just now appearing on the bookshelves.

Recently published, "Proving Ground," by Elliott Arnold is a historical novel telling of an American transport plane that is shot down in Albania during World War II. The crew consists of a history-teaching pilot, an egocentric kid as co-pilot, and an Apache Indian as the radioman-navigator.

Also involved are two women, a Yugoslav nurse who falls in love with the pilot and a chaste American nurse who gives in. The group makes its way back to Allied lines after enduring great hardship and after eluding the Nazis.

Of "Proving Ground," the Library Journal writes, "Here is abundant Balkan local color in an entertaining and readable novel for readers who enjoy adventure stories."

Titles in non-fiction that are new this season include, "The Joy of Camping" which is a complete four-season, five-senses guide to enjoying the great outdoors, "Without destroying it," the author, Richard W. Langer, writes. This book is packed as tightly as a hiker's pack with information that ranges from food and clothing to canoes and kayaks. It even contains a section on how to get out of quicksand.

AMONG THE NEW mysteries, "The Legend of the Green Man," is highly readable. This story is set in Ireland around 1800 and is filled with the mystery, intrigue, and double-dealing that is part of the endless political stupe between Catholics and Protestants in Ireland's greenest areas.

The "Complete Illustrated Book of Better Health," edited by Richard W. Wagman, M.D., updates other handbooks, and offers more in-depth information than most others.

In our age of men with prostrate trouble, Dr. Robert L. Rowan's, "Your Prostrate: What It Is, What It Does, and the Diseases That Affect It," is a useful book with a glossary, and its terms are helpfully listed in the index.

Mixed Reaction to Bruno Reorganization Plan

A budget recommendation by San Bruno City Manager Gerald Minford, seeking to increase City Planner Jack Mulqueeney's duties to that of assistant city manager, while hiring another person to handle the specific planning duties, has met with mixed council reaction.

Minford told the council he "absolutely" has to have more of Mulqueeney's time in order to do what he feels is a complete job.

"I see things not getting done because there's not enough time to do them," said Minford. "I feel myself constantly looking out of a hole."

When first hired, Mulqueeney ostensibly was to assist Minford in the city manager's office. However, as it turned out, Mulqueeney has been working full-time as a city planner.

Minford said he would spend less time with "day-to-day small personnel problems" and be free for "key internal and community matters" if he could get full-time assistance with Mulqueeney.

The city manager also reminded the council that next year he (Minford) will be faced with the negotiation of six employe contracts, in addition to budget preparation, among regular duties.

Councilman Tony Governale indicated a need for "a competent staff" because of increased legislation that has put additional burden on California cities.

Councilman George Corey, on the other hand, said he would be willing to do something about increasing the planning staff, but was "hesitant" to do anything with the city manager's office even though he agreed help was needed there too.

"I'm presenting what I think is the staffing necessary to do the job," said Minford. He said that if that staffing is not met there would be a limit on what can be done, and the quality of work would suffer.

"I don't like to be behind on work programs," said Minford. "And I don't want to do them in haste and have mistakes."

The matter was set aside for further study.

In other budget study session discussions, Minford said it would be possible for the council to come up with a five-cent tax reduction in the general fund account because of a good reserve and anticipated increase assessed valuation.

The council agreed that the city-owned cable television program was "going over big."

Next year there may be an increase in water rates, according to Minford.

It was also agreed by the council that they will not take the $280-a-year per individual council member pay increase allowed by law.

No Decision In Pacifica Murder Case

A mistrial was declared in the Willie Roscoe Patterson murder case yesterday after jurors reported they were hopelessly deadlocked at 10-2 for conviction.

Patterson, 29, of Pacifica, contended during his two-week trial in Redwood City that it was in self-defense that he killed William Moses, 37, of Daly City, last March 27 at his estranged wife Betty's home, 618 Foothill Drive, Pacifica.

Superior Court Judge Robert E. Carey said a new trial date would be set tomorrow.

The jury of eight women and four men deliberated for parts of two days. It also was deadlocked at 9 to 3 on a charge that Patterson attempted to shoot his estranged wife.

The hung jury was only the third time in recent years in San Mateo County that a jury failed to reach a verdict on a murder charge. Unanimous verdicts are required in criminal cases.

The most recent hung jury occurred five weeks ago when 10 jurors favored conviction of Edward Posada, accused of murdering his former business associate in San Mateo. Posada's trial is set for next Monday.

Patterson testified during his Redwood City trial that he thought Moses was a burglar.

But during closing arguments, prosecutor John Guheen contended that Patterson spotted Moses sitting at a counter enjoying a drink, while Betty Patterson was nearby washing dishes. Guheen argued that Patterson chased Moses around the house, shooting him four times.

Guheen said he doubted Patterson's story that he saw Moses near a window in his home, and thought he was a burglar. Attorney Zerne Hannig of Redwood City, represented Patterson, who was a student at Skyline College in San Bruno.

Gunpowder Starts Fire

A fire, described as causing a "moderate" loss burned the den of the home of Robert Rohr, 613 Mayfair Ave., South San Francisco, about 1:30 p.m. yesterday.

Officials said the fire apparently was caused by the decomposition of gun powder. According to the officials, the den contained about 20 pounds of powder used in a homemade shell-loading process.

Also in the den were rifle and shotgun shells, five deer rifles, with scopes, fishing gear and photographic equipment, including an enlarger.

$4,700 Fund To Daly City

The California Public Utilities Commission today allocated $4,700 to Daly City to assist the city in paying for its share of the costs of improving protection at San Pedro Road and the tracks of the Southern Pacific Transportation Company.

The city and the railroad agreed to share equally in constructing the new protection, which consists of two flashing light signals with automatic gates and cantilever arms. Prior protection consists of a standard railroad crossing sign. Cost of construction was estimated to be $18,800.

The PUC allocation from the Crossing Protection Fund will pay half the city's share of the construction project. The fund was established by the Legislature to assist cities and counties in providing increased protection at railroad-highway grade crossings.

WAL Starts New Service

Western Airlines will inaugurate daily service between Los Angeles International Airport and San Jose on July 1.

Flight 76 will depart Los Angeles at 8:40 p.m. and arrive in San Jose at 9:40 p.m. Flight 77 will depart San Jose at 8:45 a.m. and arrive in Los Angeles at 9:45 a.m.

The flights mark the first time Western has operated regularly scheduled service between the two points.

Also on July 1, Western will inaugurate the first nonstop service between San Jose and Honolulu.

TOP UNIT AWARD

RIVERSIDE, Calif. — Sergeant Michael D. Bender, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Bender, 170 Vista Grande Ave., Daly City, is a member of a Strategic Air Command (SAC) squadron which has earned the U.S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award.

Sergeant Bender, an inventory management specialist, is assigned at March AFB, Calif., with the 33rd Communications Squadron which received the award for exceptionally meritorious service from July 1, 1971, through June of last year.

2 'Giants' Teams Top DC Standings

The early summer boys' baseball leagues sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department are completed except for a couple of games still to be played. Of all the participants there have been numerous heroes and mistakes but in general hundreds of local boys enjoyed being able to play. Results, highlights and final standings of the leagues follow.

FIFTH GRADE NATIONAL—Holy Angels rallied to win a pair of games and garner a second place tie in the final league standings. The whole Angel unit played good baseball in beating the PAL Tigers 7-2 and the PAL Indians 9-7. The champions of the Fifth Grade National League were the well-drilled OLM Giants, coached by Bill Arata.

FIFTH GRADE AMERICAN—In the second meeting between the two teams in a week, SAL finally determined the fourth place team as they beat St. Thomas More 11-6. In the previous meeting the game ended with the score tied 19-19 due to darkness. In the following SAL win Rick Garcia struck out five of the eight men he pitched to in two innings. This game also went extra innings with the score tied 6-6 after regulation time. Defensively Seth Mathews and Dave Gallard had fine games. Paul Cotla had a good evening at bat for SAL as he rapped out three hits.

Hunts moved into the championship game against the PAL Giants still undefeated as they set down the PAL Eagles 16-12 in the first round of the playoffs. The team was led to victory by Calvin Peters, Mike Guingona and John Shields.

DC Has New Tennis Sessions

The Daly City Recreation Department announced an instructional program in tennis for the summer months.

Teens (15-18 years of age) will have four-week sessions, each class twice a week. The schedule:

Session I: Week of June 25—Week of July 16—Westmoor Park Courts, 123 Edgemont Drive. Class I: Beginners, Monday and Wednesday, 2:30-3:30 p.m. Class II: Advanced Beginners and Intermediates, Tuesday and Thursday, 4:30-5:30 p.m.

Session II: Week of July 30—Week of August 20—Serramonte High School courts, 699 Serramonte Boulevard. Class I: Beginners, Monday and Wednesday, 2:30-3:30 p.m. Class II: Advanced beginners and intermediates, Tuesday and Thursday, 4:30-5:30 p.m.

Adults (18 years and older) will have four-week sessions, each class twice a week.

Session I: Week of June 25-Week of July 16—Westmoor Park Courts, 123 Edgemont Drive. Class I: Beginners, Monday and Wednesday, 10:30-12:00 noon.

Class II: Advanced beginners and intermediates, Monday and Wednesday, 1-2:30 p.m. Class III: Advanced beginners and intermediates—Tuesday and Thursday 3 - 4:30 p.m. Class IV: Beginners, Tuesday and Thursday, 5:30-7 p.m.

Session II: Week of July 30-Week of August 20—Serramonte High School courts, 699 Serramonte Blvd. Class I: Beginners, Monday and Wednesday, 10:30-12 noon. Class II: Advanced beginners and intermediates, Monday and Wednesday, 1-2:30 p.m. Class III: Advanced beginners and intermediates, Tuesday and Thursday, 3-4:30 p.m. Class IV: Beginners, Tuesday and Thursday, 5:30-7 p.m.

Enrollment is by sending name, address, phone number and fees to Daly City Recreation Department, 134 Hillside Boulevard, Daly City 94014. Registration will not be taken at the class. Daly City residents will be given preference for all classes and all registration will be taken on a first come, first serve basis.

Registration deadlines are June 22 for session one and July 27 for session two.

Classes will be limited to ten students.

Pacifica Rec Family Swim

The Pacifica Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department will sponsor a special July 4 family swim. The activity will be from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Terra Nova High School pool. Families will be admitted for $1.50. The special swim will be open to the first 200 individuals.

THERE ARE still openings in session two of children's swim lessons. Lessons are at 9, 9:30, 10, 10:30 and 11 a.m. and 6:15 p.m. Registration is at the Recreation Department offices at 170 Santa Maria Avenue. Fee for the swim lessons is $3. Lessons will be from July 2 to July 13.

SUMMER BASEBALL still has openings in the program. The program is open to boys from 7 to 12 years old. The program is a learning oriented baseball program with an emphasis on skills and developing good playing techniques. Boys will attend a two-week clinic and then teams will be formed for league play. Team T-shirts are included. Boys must provide their own glove. Registration is being taken at the recreation office.

IN ADULT BASKETBALL, John O'Reagan and Chris Hansen combined for 29 points but it was not enough as Kerries Coffee Shop leaked past the Pacific Manor Merchants 58-57. Dick Drake and Ed Larios scored 17 and 14 points respectively to lead Kerries to the victory. Kerries now will play Bracco Distributing for the Adult Gasketball League championship.

SWIM FIN CARDS are offered for recreation swim. Swim Fin Cards may be purchased at city hall or Terra Nova pool during rec swim hours. The card is good through December 31. Rec swim hours are daily except Wednesday, 2 to 4 p.m., and Tuesday evenings 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Family swim night is Thursday evenings 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Fee for the cards are: Children, ten swims for $3; high school, ten swims for $4.50; adults, ten swims for $7; and family, ten swims for $17.50.

JUNIOR GOLF tournaments for boys of high school age and under will be set up by the recreation office's Coastside Golf Club. Competition will be in various age groups and members may play in the monthly father-son or senior-junior event. Men of the Coastside Club are available for partners. A combination of handicap and stable ford points will be used as it has proven successful in other tournaments.

A membership fee of 50 cents is required, payable at the first tournament.

Pitchers Hit Hard in DC

The Women's Slo-Pitch Softball League sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, has proved that the day of the pitching duel is over. At least, for this season.

Channing Fund continued to hold its first place position with a 28-0 victory over Tippy's. Chris Rocco and Sherry Garner led the Fund with one home run each with Linda Harmon, Doreen Daneri, Claire Anderson and Mary Anderson each going three for three. Donna Driessea had two hits backed by Vernelle Gomez and Liz Bodden each connecting for one to represent Tippy's.

Byrd's Trucking downed the R.T. Women, 24-1, and moved into second place. The first inning saw Byrd's Trucking score five runs on seven hits and Dora Muldrow connected for a home run in the third inning. The one run for R. T. Women was scored by Estella Torrez when pitcher Olivia Newman hit a single.

With 50 per cent of the games completed, Channing Fund holds the first place in league standings followed by Byrd's Trucking, R. T. Women and Tippy's.

League play will continue for the next three Sundays at the Westlake Park south diamond. Games are at 1 and 2:40 p.m.

Daly City Plans Trip To Rec Area

For the second time this summer, Daly City playground youngsters will have a chance for fun and frolic in the sun. Next week's trip, July 3, 5 and 6, has been scheduled for the Don Castro Recreation Area in Castro Valley. Don Castro features a large beach and swimming area, grassy picnic area, fishing spots and many well marked hiking trails which are only a few of the highlights of this new spot in the East Bay Regional Park District.

Youngsters of seven years and older may sign up for the trip at their local playground. The cost is $1.25 for 7-15 years and $1.50 for 16 and up. This covers transportation, admission and trip insurance. Signups must be made at least two days prior to the outing.

The following are the dates and schools that will participate:

July 3—Midway School, Panorama, George Washington, Lincoln Park, Crocker, Woodrow Wilson, Westlake School, Our Lady of Mercy, Olympia and Westlake Park.

July 5—Abrakam Lincoln, Westmoor Park, Vista Mar, Daniel Webster, Northridge, Palisades Park, Garden Village, F. D. Roosevelt, Skyline and Junipero Serra.

July 6—Colma School, Jefferson Elementary, M. Pauline Brown, Vista Grande, Marchbanks and War Memorial Community Center.

Lee Allen Heads Team

Lee Allen wrestling coach at Skyline College, was selected recently by the National AAU Wrestling Committee to be the Greco-Roman coach for the 1973 world championships September 6-9 at Teheran, Iran. The top three placers in each weight in the Nationals are to be June 29-30 at Estaneia High school in Costa Mesa. The training camp will be held August 17 at a site somewhere in the east.

The United States has traditionally been weak in Greco-Roman competion, having never won a medal in Olympic contests. Although medals have been won in world championships by Americans the biggest job for Allen will be to build the level of Greco-Roman up in the United States.

Rick Rolfes Stars in AAU Meet

The Surfrider Swim Club had its 21st AAU "B" swim meet at Aragon High School this weekend. Over 3000 people witnessed some outstanding performances by 15 swim teams.

Among the leading individual performances, Rick Rolfes won six events and received two "A" medal time qualifications. "A" Medals were presented to Kim McCready, Ken Kohtz and Nan Boyd for their superb efforts.

Bill Gutierrez, Donna McGinn and Scott Rolen won first place in their events. Sue Alarcon, Eric Nowag and Rick Rosenbaum placed in five events and Mark Phillips placed in four.

DC Offers Youth Tennis

In cooperation with the Youth Tennis Foundation of Northern California, a tennis program for boys and girls who are 10-14 years of age will be offered by the Daly City Recreation Parks and Maintenance Department.

There is no fee, but each student is required to donate two new tennis balls for use by the class. Balls will not be returned.

All sessions meet Monday through Friday for a two-week period.

Session A is July 9 to July 20 at Westlake Park Clubhouse, 149 Lake Merced Boulevard with classes at 1 and 2:30 p.m.

Session B will be July 23 to August 3 at Westmoor Park Clubhouse, 123 Edgemont Drive. Classes will be at the same times

Session C will be August 6 to August 17 at Jefferson High School, 6996 Mission Street. The class will start at 1 p.m.

Registration for all sessions will be by phone June 29 to July 5 at 992-5356. All registration will be on the first-come first-served basis.

Lousy Year

To rank amateurs, 1973 has been a lousy year for kite flying, but, actually, if there was one thing not totally devastated by last winter's abnormally heavy rains, it was kite season.

Normally a late January, February and early March recreation, kite season erupted unheralded in late February, and proved its endurance when Pacificah eld a Kite Day as late as May 11. Even as we write this, we hazard a guess that kite season is being perpetuated by many intrepid souls, especially in windy San Francisco on the especially windy Marina Greens (obeying the FAA flight regulations of a 200 feet ceiling because of Crissey Field being within three miles), or Dolores Park (being careful not to crash the kite into Mission High's condemned tower), or any other available open spaces in San Francisco and San Mateo counties, chasing wind currents as avidly as sail planers.

IT IS A NOBLE heritage, kite flying. Named after the hawk of the same name, the kite, according to ancient Greek tradition, was invented by Archytas of Tarentum four centuries before the birth of Christ. The Koreans credit the origin of the kite to a general who put fresh courage into his troops by sending up a kite to which a lantern was affixed. They believed that it was a new star and a sign of divine help. (The Koreans ascribe no date to the event, other than to say it was a long, long time ago). And the Chinese claim to have flown kites 4,000 years ago.

Whatever the origin, the kite has definitely played major roles in many human endeavors, from warfare, through science, and even into transportation.

Kite flying in America has become so popular that there are now about 40 million kites of 60 different basic designs (plus variations) sold eachyear at prices ranging from 15-20 cents to $100 and more, depending on the sophistication of the kite. Associations and annual contests have sprung up all over the country. Special events have included a contest a few years ago before the Super Bowl game, and a Smithsonian Institution annual kite-fly. Big time company, to be sure.

And the Bay Area may be on the edge of becoming the big-time American kite flying center in the burgeoning sport, especially of Dines Bahadur has anything to say about it.

Bahadur, a native of India, where kiting is the national sport, thinks so highly of the Bay Area's potential as America's kite-fyling capitol ("San Francisco weather, especially, is perfect in which to fly kites") that in mid-March he moved "Come Fly a Kite," one of America's few stores specializing in kites, to Ghiradelli Square from New York, where the store had flourished for nine years. Bahadur, who has parlayed a childhood hobby into a full-time profession which has included three international kite-flying championships, seems thus far to have been right, because 18,000 kite fanciers visited his store the first two months it was open, and he hasn't even gotten around, yet to tallying figures since summer vacation and the tourist season started.

Not all of that 18,000 were people just looking around either. Bahadur has already sold, for example, more than 1200 45-foot mylar-constructed (material used in astronauts' suits and for recording tapes) Indian Dragon type kites. Bahadur makes the Dragon Kites out of mylar because, "It is good for the San Francisco breeze," although for general purposes, paper, particularly tissue paper, is still the best material for kites, he says.

Bahadur has yet to sell, out of the Bay Area, his most expensive kite, a $3,000 non-rigid parafoil kite, capable of lifting a man into the air. But when he was in New York, he sold three such copies. He won't venture a guess as to where three men flew in New York, but as a kiting afficionado as well as a professional, Bahadur doesn't find the sale of such kites unusual in any circumstances.

Bahadur thinks nothing is unusual about kite-flying, not even flying them in rain or sleet or dark of night, which may be good news for mailmen looking for a diversion on those bad days.

BAHADUR IS clearly out to debunk American old wives' tales (excuse the pun) about kites.

'Americans think you need a long tail on a kite," expounds Bahadur, "and that to get them in the air, you have to run like crazy. That is all wrong. A tail on a kite chains it, takes away its maneuverability, makes it a dull kite. And you don't run with a kite. I can fly a kite standing absolutely in one place, with the proper movements.

"It is also a falacy that there is such a thing as a 'kite season.' No season is a bad season for kites. Done properly, kites can be flown any time, any place, in any weather."

One thing about America's growing fondness for kites which doesn't please Bahadur is that it has caused American manufacturers to do to kites what they seemingly do to everything which becomes popular — make them out of plastic. This does make them almost impossible to break, but, notes Bahadur, plastic is a bad material for kites not only aesthetically, but areodynamically, as well. They may stay in the air, but they're not very maneuverable.

BUT DESPITE the intrusion of technology and adults, what is probably the original spirit and essance of kite flying was summed up one day for us by a 10-year old boy flying a skull-and-crossbones in the middle of a residential street in Daly City. Searching for a great sociological-psychological truth, we asked the little boy why he likes to fly kites.

Council Votes Itself a Pay Hike in D.C.

The Daly City council gave itself a pay raise Monday touching off some criticism from two members of the sparse audience at City Hall.

Effective August 1, councilmen will receive a five per cent increase — from $250 to $337.50 per month for four meetings per month, plus all "outside" activities such as social functions, government meetings, city hall business conferences.

Reverend Hosey Spears asked on what basis the raise was granted.

City attorney Al Polonsky explained the council action was based on a recent legislative act setting salary standards for general law cities, such as Daly City.

The salaries are based on population of these cities.

Mrs. Louise Garry, of 482 Wellington Ave., strongly criticized the raise from the audience, later commenting she did not think the council earned the pay hike "because they have done nothing for us in Old Daly City."

Ex-S.S.F. Planner Scores Manager

Dan Pass, recently taking a deferred retirement as South San Francisco city planner, has made public a statement he gave to City Manager Gale Dreisbach concerning the retirement.

"This statement, which was submitted to City Manager Gale Driesbach on June 21, 1973, succinctly explains my reason for leaving the service of the people of the city of South San Francisco," says an introductory letter by Pass, attached to the statment.

In his June 21 statement, Pass noted that "My premature retirement is predicated upon my failure to reconcile my service to your (Dreisbach's) administration with the following canons of the Code of Professional Responsibility of the American Institute of Planners."

These are the canons Pass referred to:

"A planner serves the public interest primarily. He shall accept or continue employment only when he can insure accommodation of the client's or employer's interest with the public interest.

A planner shall exercise independent professional judgement on behalf of his client or employer and shall serve him in a competent manner."

Pass' statement to Dreisbach said further that "I regard your administrative policies as being diametrically opposed to the public interest of South San Francisco. I am especially opposed to your parochial restraint of the office of the city planner and its professional practitioners.

"I feel that my service to the city of South San Francisco has been consistent with the requirements of honor," said Pass' statement.

Sun Valley, Groves Romp Relentlessly

Sun Valley Dairy and Ski and Dive picked up impressive victories to highlight the eighth week of action in the Pacifica Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department's Old Pro Softball League.

Sun Valley, 10-8 — Dave Lebelle and Steve Evans rapped out three hits and a home run, respectively, as Sun Valley Dairy moved into first place by edging past Dolphin Real Estate 10-8. Brad Bassi paced the real estate club with three hits.

Country Club, 9-5 — Dave Stevens and Al Saisi combined to rap out seven hits as Country Club clipped Manor Barber 9-5. Mike Humphares and Tim Wilson had three hits apiece to lead the Manor Barber attack.

A & W, 11-4 — A & W pulled the "upset of the century," as they jumped out to an eight-run lead in the first inning and then cruised to an 11-4 victory over the Westlake Lounge. Steve DiMartini played an outstanding game at third base and the team was further assisted by the fine pitching of Frank McGrath. Hitting for A & W was led by Al Chaney, Dan Nolan and Frank McGrath. Larry Furiosi, Barry Carli and Rick Calcagno had two hits apiece in a losing effort for the lounge.

Ski and Dive, 8-7 — Bob Frump collected three solid hits to lead Ski and Dive to an 8-7 victory over the previously undefeated Capp's Corner. Doug Newberg and Gordy Contreres had two hits apiece for Ski and Dive. Chuck Reynolds Jr., John Alameda and Mike Bagga each had two hits apiece in the losing cause.

Rookie League — Ernie Groves picked up victory number seven to highlight the seventh week of action in the Rookie League.

Ball Bangers, 14-10 — Led by John Kenny and Bill Jacopsen with three hits apiece, the Ball Bangers scored eight runs in the last two innings, to hand Joker's Wild their third straight set back, 14-10.

Ernie Groves Realty, 12-11 — Ron Watkins pounded out four hits and teammates Kurt Stellingwork. Tim Johnson, Tom Vallero and Bill Christianson all had three hits apiece. Ernie Groves nipped the Freaks 12-11. The victory gave Ernie Groves a two-game lead in the Rookie League. Bob Wimmer and Gary Schmidt paced the Freaks with three hits apiece.

Dismantlers, 8-6 — In the battle of the cellar the Pacifica Auto Dismantlers edged past the Moose Lodge 8-6 in an extra inning affair. Steve Rubie, Kevin Roberts and Ray Rosa pounded out three hits apiece as the Dismantlers picked up victory number three. Don Clark, Andy Nriloon and Gary Pruitt belted long home runs in a losing effort for the Moose Lodge.

Ladies Softball — The Dealer Wheelers rolled to victory number four to highlight the fifth week of action in the Ladies Softball League.

Hefner's, 6-3 —Charlieen Cerasco and Elaine Fngler belted out three hits apiece, as Hefner's Typewriter Service nipped past McComb's 6-3.

Dealer Wheelers, 21-4 — Vickie Lanci and Rita Clark rapped out four hits apiece as the Dealer Wheeler demolished Middleton Dodge Girls 21-4. Pam Downing had two hits in a losing cause for the Dodge Girls.

Lake Merced Under SM 'Influence'

The lower end of Lake Merced in San Francisco falls into San Mateo County's sphere of planning influence, according to findings of the Central Coast Regional Coastal Zone Conservation Commission.

That body has found that, due to the 1,000-yard conservation zone established by the passage of Proposition 20 last November, a small semicircle of Lake Merced on its southern tip is actually in this county's planning jurisdiction.

The majority of the lake is in a northern coastal zone of influence.

The discovery, more of a remapping than anything else, was made public during Monday's day-long meeting of the Central Coast body in Santa Cruz.

In other actions affecting San Mateo County, the commission:

—Approved a 260-unit apartment complex proposed by Points West Investors in Pacifica.

—Approved Half Moon Bay's Place I improvements in that city's water quality control program.

—Approved seven single family homes in the Marine Terrace subdivision in Moss Beach.

—Approved a church facility with off-street parking on Wienke Way and California in Moss Beach.

Fireworks Sale

The annual fireworks sale sponsored by the Westlake Catholic Men and Women of Our Lady of Mercy parish will be today through July 4 from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

The red, white and blue tent will be at Lake Merced Boulevard and Southgate in the parking lot of the Westlake Shopping Center. All proceeds will benefit Our Lady of Mercy building fund.

Students in Washington

Sixty-nine students from the University of California campus at Berkeley are spending the summer in the Cal-in-the-Capitol program, working as temporary aides in the offices of senators and congressmen and with federal and private agencies, ranging from the Justice Department to the National Collection of Fine Arts.

Two of the interns are from north San Mateo County. They are:

Jeffrey Banchero, 131 Amalita Court, San Bruno, a senior political science major, working in the legislative office of the Office of Education of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare; and Gerald Steinberg, 138 Westdale Ave., Daly City, a senior physics major, in the Commerce Department's Bureau of Standards.

MILLBRAE CADET

WEST POINT, N. Y. — Cadet Stephen F. Flynn, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Fylnn, 1240 Roble Road, Millbrae, graduated from the U.S. Military Academy, on June 6.

Cadet Flynn will receive a Bachelor of Science degree and his commission as a Field Artillery Second Lieutenant. He is a 1969 graduate of Homestead High School in Sunnyvale.

Non Smoker Wins Partial Chamber Ban

Non-smokers won a partial victory before the Pacifica city council in Oddstad Hall last night, getting the council to establish no smoking section in the "south section" of the chamber.

W. Richard Wallis, 4 Elm Court, made the appeal to the council while a man near him and a woman behind him lit up. "I've sat in three different seats tonight before finding one where I could get away from the smoke," Wallis said, as a cigar on the opposite side of the room fired to life over a match.

Wallis made it clear he wanted a ban on all smoking at council meetings and called this action "definitely not good enough."

Standing under a slow-moving cloud of cigarette smoke, Wallis charged that although smokers "always claim smoking as a matter of individual choice" the non-user is having his choice taken away. "When you sit in a room full of that stuff, you're smoking," he said.

None of the four councilmen who smoke lit up during Wallis' presentation.

EQCC to See Sewage Plan

A preview of San Mateo County's new sub-regional sewage plan will be given to the Environmental Quality Coordinating Council at its general meeting Thursday at 8 p.m., with the stage program at 9 at San Carlos city hall, 666 Elm Street.

John Jenks of the Palo Alto firm doing the study, will review the Water Quality Management Plan for the county. Other county water quality officials will be on hand to answer questions, including Supervisor James Fitzgerald of the Bay Area Sewer Service Agency, Roger McConnell of the Regional Water Quality Control Board and County Public Health Engineer Henry Eich.

A report on the impact of assessment practices on open space lands in San Mateo County also will be presented. A subcommittee of EQCC has been studying the problem for the last six months.

The meeting is open to the public.

New Westlake Cleaner Open

John and Mary Bundros, new owners of Westlake French Cleaners, waited 20 years to fulfill their dream of owning their own cleaning business.

They had moved to Westlake in April, 1953 with the intention of opening this business. Now, after waiting 20 years, they have their wish come true.

The Bundros have been in the cleaning business since 1946. He is the past president of Allied Cleaning Supples and Perc-Serv of Oakland.

Westlake French Cleaners is at 330 South Mayfair in Westlake Shopping Center, Daly City.

Adams Buick Sales Chief

Ronald H. Norman of Belmont has been named fleet and sales manager for Adams Buick, Inc., 6888 Mission Street, Daly City.

Norman has been associated with Buick for over fourteen years; previously with Paul Dibert Motors, now Tinsley Buick, of Redwood City.

With wife Pauline and three children, he has been a resident of Belmont since 1953 and is past president of the Sterling Downs Home Owners Association.

K of C to Sell Fireworks

Grand Knight Joseph Gumina has announced that Marian Council 3773, Knights of Columbus, will have its annual fireworks sale from June 28 through July 4. The stand will be at 2401 Geneva Avenue, opposite the Cow Palace and will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily. Proceeds from the sale will go toward youth activities of the council.

St. Martin's Lists Bridge Winners

Winners in the third annual St. Martin's Church Bridge Marathon have been announced.

Mrs. Pat Lindstrom finished first followed by Mrs. Elsa Carpenter, second; James Wyatt, third; Hugh Stone, fourth; Mrs. Wanda Nichols, fifth, and Mrs. Karen Kelsey, sixth. Forty couples entered the tournament, which ran for five months with one game a month.

World of Wine

Doesn't Stop at Cabernet

By Edward S. Oppenheimer

He looks over his shoulder as he enters the store. Is anyone following?

He sidles over to the clerk and whispers. The clerk goes into a back room and emerges with a bottle in a plain brown paper bag.

The customer furtively gives the clerk money and walks out the door, looking over both shoulders to see if he is being followed.

Meet Jay Cabernet, otherwise known in the wine trade as the cabernet nut. What Jay had purchased was a bottle of Cabernet Sauvignon. He had asked the clerk for a case; all the clerk did was laugh — and sell him one bottle.

Why is everyone in California trying to purchase Cabernet Sauvignon? Is it the best wine produced in the state? Is it because all the conversations about California wine revolve around Cabernet Sauvignon?

It's a personal opinion concerning the first questions that other wines equally as good as Cabernet are produced in California : Namely, Pinot Chardonnay and Zinfandel. It's also a personal opinion that probably a large percentrage of Cabernet buyers would be better off drinking something else.

The average Cabernet buyer wants to buy the wine today and drink it tonight — or within a relatively short period of time.

Good Cabernet has an extremely high tannin acid content and to drink it young before the tannin has had a chance to mellow in the bottle is akin to drinking coffee that had set all day on a low flame.

Cabernet from a good winery has to be laid down under proper conditions from three to ten years before it can be really enjoyed.

The buyer meets other pitfalls in acquiring a good bottle of Cabernet. The wineries are in extremely short supply because of the increasing number of wine lovers and short Cabernet grape crops caused by frost and rain problems during the last few years. The tremendous demand has caused a number of wineries to release their Cabernets almost immediately after bottling rather than letting it age two or three years in the bottle at the winery.

Thus the price of Cabernet in the retail outlet has doubled within the last three or four years.

Some solutions to the problems of short supply and higher price: drink other California reds and begin sampling wines of other countries — Spain, Italy, Bulgaria, Chile and Argentina. Prices on many of these wines are less than half that of a good California Cabernet.

Some examples of reasonably priced reds include Torres Gran Coronas, 1962, at $2.49, Marques Riscal 1968 at $3.75, a Bulgarian Cabernet for only $1.98.

And experiment with California Zinfandels and Petite Sirahs; I would recommend trying Petite Sirahs, test the labels of Ridge, Sutter Home, Oakville, Martini, Krug, Mirassou, Heitz, Mayacamas, Sebastiani, Souverain, Bertero and Simi.

Pastas Are Budget Aids

Stretch your food budget by combining the more expensive protein foods with macaroni, spaghetti, and noodles to extend the number of servings. At the same time, these "pasta" products contribute the B vitamins, niacin, riboflavin, and thiamine, plus iron to the diet. The U. S. Department of Agriculture says pasta products will be plentiful in June, with the likelihood of attractive prices.

Varieties Of Tomato Products

However you make a special tomato sauce—for spaghetti, lasagna, ravioli, or pasta dishes, you might find it useful to check this information from the U. S. Department of Agriculture on the differences between canned tomato sauce, puree, and paste.

All are made from the pulp and juice of red ripe tomatoes. The pulp and juice are cooked in equipment especially designed to remove some of the water and concentrate the product. The more water that is removed, the more concentrated the product is, and the more it costs per ounce—but the less you need to use.

Tomato paste is the most concentrated of the three products, and salt is usually the only seasoning added to it. You must add water to make your sauce, and of course, whatever seasonings you like.

Tomato puree is less concentrated than tomato paste, and salt is the only seasoning allowed according to Food and Drug Administration regulations. Unless the label says otherwise, you can use tomato puree without added water.

Tomato sauce is the least concentrated of the three. It is flavored with sugar, salt, vinegar, and spices. Makers of tomato sauce add differing amounts of spices or seasonings, so check the label to see what the sauce contains. Different manufacturers use different seasonings, and sometimes onions and mushrooms are added, so you have a ready-made sauce—no need to add your own seasonings unless you want to.

Canned pear-shaped or Italian-style tomatoes are also a good choice for tomato sauces since they are meatier than round-shaped tomatoes.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has established standards of quality for tomato sauce, puree, and paste. The manufacturers of these products may use the U. S. grade standards as guides to quality.

The best quality products—U. S. Grade A or Fancy — are made from the best fresh tomatoes. These products are bright red, thick but smooth, have a rich tomato flavor, and few if any dark specks or large pieces of seeds or skin. Lower qualities don't look or taste quite as good, but they are thrifty buys. You will probably find two levels of quality of these products to choose from.

Omelets from Breakfast to Dessert

Eggs will be plentiful in June and the U.S. Department of Agriculture is spreading the word to encourage their use. Now may be an ideal time to try your hand at some new recipes.

Why not try making some omelets which can be as different in flavor as the various ingredients you choose to add?

FRENCH OMELET

6 large eggs
¾ teaspoon of salt
Dash of pepper
6 tablespoons of milk
3 tablespoons of margarine or butter

Mix eggs, salt, pepper and milk until egg yolks and whites are well blended. Heat a large frypan just hot enough to sizzle a drop of water. Melt the margarine or butter in the frypan. Pour the egg mixture into the frypan all at once. It should begin to cook at once at the outer edges. Lift the edges toward the center, and tip the pan so that the uncooked mixture flows under the cooked portion. The mixture is set when the egg no longer flows freely. Slide the pan rapidly back and forth over the heat to keep the mixture in motion and sliding freely to avoid sticking. Let the omelet cook about 1 minute longer to brown the bottom lightly. Fold one-half of the omelet over the other half. Serve at once. Makes 3-4 servings.

And if you want to vary the flavor, on half the omelet just before folding, spread with several tablespoons of tart jelly, browned mushrooms, shredded cheese, crumbled cooked bacon, ham, shrimp or crab meat, sour cream, avocados, fresh fruit, or anything else to suit your taste.

Here's another variation: Fill the omelet before folding with canned cling peaches, then fold and sprinkle with powdered sugar. Then flambe (flame) with peach brandy, and serve with sour cream for a super dessert.

At Mayfair
You save more on food

Uncle Sam helps us prove that food cost less at Mayfair last week than at 6 other top chains

RETAIL FOOD PRICE COMPARISONS
BASED ON U.S. DEPT. OF LABOR, BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS ITEM LIST, IN MAYFAIR DISCOUNT AND IN OTHER STORES, EFFECTIVE JUNE 15 TO 16

Bay area Competitor	No. of Items	Unit $ Total Mayfair	Unit $ Total Competitor	Savings at Mayfair
Discount Chain A	80	51.36	53.38	2.02
Discount Chain B	81	52.64	55.25	2.61
Discount Chain C	83	45.51	51.68	6.17
Non-discount Chain D	79	50.63	55.60	4.97
Non-discount Chain E	83	51.38	55.04	3.66
Non-discount Chain F	72	46.36	53.24	6.88

We compared prices with major supermarket chains all around the area, again last week. We compared Mayfair's discount prices with "specials", "total discount" and most kinds of prices. Last week Mayfair's overall food prices were lower than six other top chains.

To make these comparisons more fair, we used Uncle Sam's list--the same list of 90 some items that the U.S. Department of Labor uses to measure food prices as part of the cost of living.

As shown the savings at Mayfair on this item list ranged from $2.02 to $6.88.

We don't just say "Food cost less at Mayfair." We mean it--and we prove it.

S.M. Cities Protesting S.F. Cutback

Three weeks ago, "suddenly without warning," San Francisco cut some $3.6 million out of its budget for improving the Hetch Hetchy water system, including portions of the system in San Mateo County.

San Carlos councilman Thomas Jenkins last week told the County Council of Mayors that many San Mateo County cities are sending letters of protest over this action to San Francisco.

The cities want these funds restored, Jenkins said.

He pointed up the fact that the county contracted with the Hetch Hetchy water system (San Francisco) in 1960 for the supplying of water.

In late 1970, San Mateo County and San Francisco agreed to a rate increase, understanding the money was needed to improve the system.

San Mateo county water users now pay about $1 million annually to San Francisco under this agreement.

After meeting with the Peninsula Water Agency membership last week, Jenkins said the agency gave its approval to filing a law suit against San Francisco on the issue.

Meanwhile, San Francisco supervisor Ron Pelosi met with Jenkins and agreed to support a move to put the money back into the budget, Jenkins said.

Carlos F.D. Aide Sought

Only one member of the San Carlos Fire Department is still in line for the newly-created position of Deputy Director of Public Safety, it was learned this week.

A total of nine men passed the recent written examinations and face oral exams June 30, according to Richard W. (Dick) Weiss, assistant city manager.

A total of seven members of the Fire Department applied for the position.

The deputy director, in essence will replace the position of fire chief. The deputy director also will assist in police administration.

A choice will be made by City Administrator C. R. (Bob) Allen sometime next month.

Fete Redwood City Drivers

Two Redwood City truckdrivers have been honored by their company for driving more than 250,000 miles without having a single accident.

Robert A. Kuykendall, 41, and Rance P. Fluker, 38, were recognized as "quarter-million milers" by Robert Kirkpatrick of the American Transport Sysaem.

"This is a tremendous accomplishment," Kirkpatrick said.

"These men have driven over a quarter-million miles each over the highways of 11 western states without an accident."

American Transport, he says, operates refrigerated freight trucks which distribute produce, primarily bananas, in large diesel trucks and 40- or 45-foot trailers.

Bookmobile's New Stop

The Queen's Lane stop of the San Mateo County Library Bookmobile will be replaced by stop at 1836 Los Altos Drive beginning July 18. The Los Altos Drive stop will be from 1:30 to 2 p.m. every other Wednesday (Eichler Highlands area).

The bookmobile carries over 4,000 books which are regularly replaced with new additions. Magazines and children's fiction and non-fiction at all reading levels are also available.

COMMISSIONED

QUANTICO, Va. — Marine Michael R. Webster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Webster of 2019 Timberlane Way, San Mateo, was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps after graduating from basic officer training at the Marine Corps Development and Education Command here.

Dog Packs Rip Sheep

Your lovable good-natured old lap dog may spend the better part of his or her day sunning in the back yard or lying at your kitchen door. Then, when evening comes and humane officers retire from their daily beat, you may be one of those who decides to give your pent-up pet a burst of freedom. You take off his collar, open the front door and turn him loose for a harmless night-time romp.

He'll be back in the morning, quietly sleeping on the back porch. What you don't know is what he's been doing throughout the night. Most likely he has joined a pack of other lovable dogs whose owners also let them out to run, and running in a pack they've caused havoc and destruction.

"People probably don't know that these domestic dog packs derive great sport out of their romps—sport like tearing up their neighbors yards or worse yet sport like ripping the ears, eyes and buttocks off of young calves, or tearing unborn lambs from the wombs of pregnant sheep or running deer and other wildlife until they drop from exhaustion only to be torn to bits by the pack," says Rich Ward, Peninsula Humane Society Shelter Supervisor. "Some dog packs prefer smaller game and often turn entire chicken farms into blood baths. And, there are also dogs who are just interested in destroying property, plants and shrubbery."

Ward continued, "Dogs by instinct are pack animals. No matter how domesticated they can and do revert to ancestral ways—running in packs, causing chaos in neighborhoods, but more seriously ravaging livestock and killing wildlife sometimes for food, but most often for sport."

Peninsula Humane Society employee May Olson, Redwood City, can attest to this. Several months ago stray dogs jumped her six-foot fence and killed the family pet goat, some chickens and a turkey.

In ten years it's been estimated that almost 3000 deer have been killed by dogs in San Mateo County. "Some of these killers are packs of wild dogs, but many are lovable pets who shouldn't be running loose, whose owners are violating the County's leash laws," Ward added. "By allowing their dogs to run freely they also add to other problems in the pet world—disease, the pet population explosion and accidental injuries.

"The problem of strays and the damage they can cause is a growing one in San Mateo County. Our citation program which operates much like issuing a traffic ticket to violators, in this case pet owners who allow their dogs to run loose, is helping to alleviate the situation, but we have limited resources.

Scholarships for Careers

Award of 36 scholarships to students preparing for careers in allied health fields was announced today by the Auxiliary of Peninsula Hospital and Medical Center, Burlingame.

All recipients are currently enrolled in, or planning to attend, colleges of the San Mateo Community College District, according to Mrs. Henry Vegod of Hillsborough, auxiliary scholarship committee chairman.

This is the second year of the auxiliary's scholarship program, she said, and the number of 1973 awards represents a 50 per cent increase over the 1972 total.

Mrs. Vegod identified recipients as follows, together with hometowns and career goals:

Burlingame — Melanie Meisel and Kathryn O'Moore, registered nurse; Lee Perkins and Marsha Schroeder, mental health technician.

Daly City — Bernice Larry, Evelyn Pineda and Teanna Pulido, registered nurse; Denise Lapachet, physician; Laura Ramstetter, X-ray technician and nuclear medicine.

East Palo Alto — Jimmie Nell Griffin, X-ray technician.

Half Moon Bay — Wendy Beers, X-ray technician.

Menlo Park — Allison Akana, physician's assistant; Vivian Mills, registered nurse.

Palo Alto — Madelyn Courland, physical therapist.

Redwood City —Toni Gray and Linda Van Horn, registered nurse; Janelle Johnson, X-ray technician; Nancy Lahey, premedicine mental health; Mary Ann Murphy, physical therapist.

San Bruno — John Bolanos, physician; Elisa Rodriguez, premedicine; Louise Gail Bradlock, licensed vocational nurse; John Mailhiot, registered nurse.

San Carlos — Drake Torp-pedersen, physician.

San Mateo — Linda Lyons, physician; Patricia Lind, Karen Mattos, Claudine Pasternak, Malcolm Pink, Debra Rowe, Mary Rusch and Julie Suzuki, registered nurse; Linda Murray and Jean Yates, X-ray technician and nuclear medicine; Nancy Plumley, physical therapist.

South San Francisco — Alexandra Basanez, registered nurse.

Check Sickle Cell Anemia In Death of EPA Woman

The coroner's office is investigating the possibility that sickle cell anemia may be responsible for the death of Mrs. Gertrude Reans, 43, of 1675 Notre Dame Ave., East Palo Alto.

Mrs. Reans was dead on arrival at Stanford Hospital at 1:30 p.m. Saturday after she was discovered not breathing at the home of a friend, Mrs. Viola Tucker, 2221 Dumbarton Ave.

Mrs. Tucker told Coroner's Investigator Jim Donovan that Mrs. Reans had stayed overnight at the Tucker home and appeared all right when Mrs. Tucker left for shopping. When Mrs. Tucker was unable to awaken Mrs. Reans and discovered she appeared not to be breathing, a resuscitator crew was summoned from the Menlo Park Fire District. Its efforts to revive Mrs. Reans were not successful.

Donovan said he was informed that Mrs. Reans had a history of possible sickle cell anemia, and that tests will be conducted by the coroner's office to determine if that affliction could have been the cause of death.

SEC Suspends Trading of Stock

SAN FRANCISCO — Trading in the stock of a San Mateo company has been suspended for 10 days by the Securities and Exchange Commission because of delinquency in filing certain reports.

The SEC said El Camino Financial Corp., 4 W. Fourth Ave., failed to report on time current information regarding its activities that was of importance to shareholders.

El Camino's suspension became effective June 22 and will be lifted July 1. The suspension in trading will be lifted automatically, according to an SEC spokesman here.

Lilly Named First Park, Rec Director

A local governmental administrator has been appointed by Don Mueller, city manager of San Mateo, as that city's first director of parks and recreation.

John C. Lilly, now assistant city manager of Santa Clara, will take over the duties of combining the two departments in compliance with provisions of an ordinance recently passed by the San Mateo City Council.

Lilly, 58, formerly superintendent of recreation and later city manager of Stockton, brings extensive and valuable municipal operations and budgetary experience to his new assignment.

Since serving for four years as San Mateo County's West Bay Rapid Transit general manager, Lilly has performed professional consulting services for: The city of Oakland in merging its parks and recreation departments; American Forest Products, Inc. in developing and operating mountain recreation facilities, and the San Francisco Public Utilities Commission in researching productive uses for its watershed properties.

The new parks and recreation director has resided in San Mateo County intermittently since 1962. He now lives in Belmont with his wife, Margaret. The Lillys have a daughter in Bakersfield who is a doctor of pharmacy and a son in Salem, Oregon. The latter, a former San Carlos High and Oregon State track captain, is a recreation environmentalist for the Oregon Department of Transportation.

Lilly, anxious to return to his first "occupational love," parks and recreation, recalls his initial job as a laborer helping to install drinking fountains in Stockton's parks. From that job, he progressed to umpire, playground director, recreation superintendent and ultimately city manager, which post he held for nine years.

A graduate of the University of California at Berkeley, Lilly studied political science and physical education, played varsity baseball and coached. He has a Master's degree in Education from the University of Pacific. He taught in high school, lectured at the University of California, Pacific and Stanford and was the founding director of the School of Public Administration, Golden Gate University, San Francisco.

Tape Play Expensive in SC

If one misses a city council meeting in San Carlos, it could be expensive to hear the replay on a tape recording.

San Carlos charges citizens $7.50 merely to listen to the taped council meeting. The city's neighbors, Belmont, Redwood City and Menlo Park, do not charge the public.

"The citizens of the city are paying for services, and I owe them my time," says James W. McLaughlin, city clerk of Belmont. Marian McCrindle, clerk in Redwood City, and Margaret Snowden, clerk of Menlo Park, agree.

But not Kathy Grant, veteran city clerk of San Carlos.

"I've been charging for 10 years," she said in an interview.

"I charge because they take me away from my work," she said.

Other clerks interviewed seemed to believe that their work incorporates serving the public, even if it means setting up tape recorders.

Apparently one city councilman in San Carlos is questioning the city's unique position. Charles E. (Chuck) Calderhead is requesting a report with explanations of why the fee is charged.

Added Prison Term For San Carlos Man

F. Gregory Caruso, 39, of San Carlos, has been sentenced in U.S. District Court in San Francisco to one year in prison for willful failure to file a federal income tax return for 1970. The prison term is to run consecutively with a previous five-year sentence for smuggling.

A criminal information was filed April 5 charging Caruso with two counts of failing to file returns for 1969 and 1970. The information alleged Caruso had a gross income of $81,000 for the two years.

Caruso, of 245 Clifton Ave., San Carlos, pleaded guilty to failure to file for 1970. The government moved to dismiss the charge for 1969.

The information was filed as the result of an investigation by the Internal Revenue Service Intelligence Division working as part of the West Coast Strike Force of the Department of Justice Organized Crime Division.

In addition to the criminal charges Caruso may be civilly liable for taxes and penalties to be determined after criminal proceedings are concluded.

A special Grand Jury indicted Caruso on August 17, 1971, on a charge of smuggling marijuana from Mexico to the Bay Area. He and six others were charged with smuggling approximately six tons of marijuana worth $800,000 on the open market. Caruso pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced on May 16, 1972, to five years' imprisonment.

The records of the Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation for the State of California disclose that Caruso was arrested in April, 1963, on an airline credit card fraud charge. It was alleged he ran up bills totalling $44,000 against United Air Lines. When he was tried on that charge the case ended in a hung jury.

Westborough Med Center Stirs S.S.F. Controversy

Eugene Mullin was elected chairman of the South San Francisco City Planning Commission Monday at the South San Francisco City Hall.

Mullin, completing his first year as a member of the commission, fills the seat formerly held by Donald F. Gamma.

An unsuccessful candidate in the recent South San Francisco City Council elections, Gamma was relieved of his duties by that same body shortly after the race.

The planning commission again listened to debate on a request by Joseph P. Haggerty to rezone a parcel of land he owns on the northeasterly corner of the Westborough Shopping Center.

Haggarty wanted the zoning changed from Planned Community Duplex Family District (PC-DF) to Planned Community Commercial District (PC-C), so he could build a medical facility on the site. At the last meeting, June 11, the commission decided to carry the issue over, hoping that a compromise could be reached between Haggarty and Dr. Chuck Sires, a general partner in the development of the shopping center.

At the last meeting, Sires argued that the Westborough area's relatively slow rate of growth did not warrant construction of a medical building near the center.

The problem seemed solved when Sires announced that he was reversing his objection, because surveys taken by his group during the preceeding two weeks showed an abundance of general practitioners looking for office space in North San Mateo County. "Build it with our blessings," Dr. Sires told Haggerty.

But as Haggarty, the owner of Westborough Realty, breathed a sigh of relief, Leslie Cohn, representing the Greater Capital Corporation, owners of Westborough Square Shopping Center down the hill from Westborough Shopping Center approached the speakers' microphone.

Cohn said his company already had drawn up plans to build a two-story medical facility on the southwestern corner of their center. "We bought the land five years ago and have been paying taxes on it," he said, "we deserve something for that."

Chairman Mullin then asked Haggerty what the best use of the land would be as far as the community was concerned.

Haggerty replied that the community would be hurt if he were forced to build residential quarters as stipulated in the zoning ordinance. "We must look at the special demands it will impose," Haggerty said. "Fourteen duplexes, (the maximum number he could build on his 1.28 acres), would create a wall effect, it would be unsightly," he added.

Attacking the Greater Capital Corporation's plans, Haggarty said the building would sit directly on top of the San Andreas Fault. Therefore, it probably could not be built and construction financing would be very hard to get.

Cohn said if he could not get financing he would build with cash, but granted the possibiilty that the famous California crack might pose a problem.

The vote was then taken, the zoning change was rejected 4 to 2, and the new chairman was strained as he told the loser his request was denied.

Before adjourning, Chairman Mullin noted that meetings will temporarily be held on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month beginning July 10.

SSF Enrollments For Summer Rise

Lorraine Cooper Berg, president of the South San Francisco Unified School District board of trustees, presided over her last meeting of that body Monday.

Mrs. Berg, along with trustee Leo L. Eserini, will be replaced in July by Tom Henkle and Ken Austen, victors in the recent school board election.

Eserini missed his last meeting because he is in Europe.

Monday's meeting was routine, with the four trustees present moving swiftly through the agenda and dispensing with an executive session. The trustees unanimously approved each order of business.

Mrs. Berg, a 12-year veteran of the board wished both the new members and the returning trustees "luck and Godspeed" in the future. She also remarked that the board should "think of the kids."

District Supt. Dr. Paul Nielsen reported to the trustees that the first day of summer school enrollment Monday was extremely successful.

The three secondary schools, South San Francisco High and Alta Loma and Westborough Junior Highs reported summer session enrollments of 700, 220 and 190, respectively.

The total elementary school enrollment figure was over 1500.

The trustees will meet July 10, a Tuesday, because Trustee Leo Padreddii will be away on Monday of that week, the usual meeting day.

San Bruno YWCA To Close?

The San Mateo County YWCA unit will be closed down at the end of this month unless enough volunteers can be found to help with the work.

The YWCA is having a "financial crisis" and the paid staff has been terminated as of June 30, according to Helen E. Kinel, chairman of the San Mateo County unit's committee of management.

Volunteer help is the only means left of keeping the YWCA, at 560 El Camino Real, San Bruno, open at all, she said. Should it be closed it might end YWCA services in this county "for years to come," she went on.

If all goes well funding should be coming in again by the start of 1974, she said. The YWCA is a United Crusade agency.

In the meantime, volunteers are needed for the tutorial program, children's programs, office, Y-teen advisors, adult and youth group leaders, photographer, speaker, committee work, publicity, transportation, special events and-or fund raising or other preferences, depending on interest.

Those interested in volunteering should call the YWCA office, 588-7366.

Pacifica Considers Identification Plan

It sounded like a good idea from Raymond Karczewski, owner of Pacific Coast Investigations and Security, to put 75 to 100 teen-agers to work this summer in a property identification program in all Pacifica homes.

But the more the Pacifica City Council talked about it last night the more the glitter seemed to wear off with the thought of potential liability and theft problems.

It still has merit, however, the council felt, and referred the idea to the staff for "encouragement," to find a foolproof way of making it work and report back at the next meeting.

Councilwoman Grace McCarthy called the plan, which would have the youngsters under close supervision engrave appliances and valuables with identification numbers, "too good to throw away" and suggested the children be required to have two letters of reference.

"I don't require references for them to pull my weeds," she said.

But Councilman Stan Farber replied that "There's a difference between having them pulling weeds and inventorying your valuables."

Karczewski maintained that screening of applicants by the Youth Employment Service and the police department would cull the ones with records, "thereby alleviating any worries a homeowner might have as to who is coming into their home."

Besides providing badly needed summer jobs, Karczewski said, the project also would "create a deterrent atmosphere for the burglar" if he knew he couldn't get rid of marked stolen goods.

Bruno Fire Perils Homes

San Bruno firemen spent most of yesterday afternoon putting out a fire in a city park cuttings dump, located between the San Bruno city and the County park off Crystal Springs Road. At one point, it spread over dry grass and periled nearby homes on Glen Ave. and Parkview Ct.

Fire officials said it appeared that the fire was started by fireworks. A call came in to the fire department at 11:50 a.m. Officials said one crew positioned itself to prevent spread to homes. The main crew returned to the station at 3 p.m. and a mop up crew stayed at the fire site until 5 p.m.

In conjunction with the fire fighting, San Bruno police arrested two teen-agers, for shooting a fire department sedan with pellet guns. Also hit were a windshield on a fire truck.

Don't Answer Blind Ads for Franchises

By LORENE BEASLEY
Better Business Bureau

QUESTION: I am very interested in a blind ad franchise selling advertisement. Would I be wrong in answering it?

ANSWER: The Bureau urges that you not answer any franchise or business opportunity advertisement which does not disclose the company's name and address in the ad. Blind ad franchise selling, motel telephone number franchise selling and blind postoffice box number franchising is dangerous. You have the right to know the company's name so that you can check it out before walking blindly into a potential sales trap. Sending your name and telephone number or phoning a Mr. X., at a motel or hotel is a bad way to start a business relationship.

QUESTION: I always seem to be on a call list of someone soliciting for something. The caller seems to know just who in our firm has the authority to say "yes" or "no."

ANSWER: Sometime along the way you probably agreed to donate to or buy an ad for some questionable project. Thus the "tap list" with your name on it, is sold to one promotion after another. If you want off the "tap list" ask the caller to send you a letter and you will consider his proposition. This usually ends the calls.

QUESTION: How do I know a garment is drycleanable?

ANSWER: According to the Federal Trade Commission, in a statement in Buyers Guide Number Ten in an explanation of Care Labels, which are now required by an FTC ruling, "You can expect any garment to be drycleanable unless its Care label warns it is not." The statement helps to clarify a point the nation's drycleaners say is all too unclear to consumers. Apparel makers have agreed on this concept but the International Fabricare Institute and its drycleaners groups say what concerns them is not so much what apparel makers agree on as what consumers understand.

'Bank' Needs A Rh Blood

An urgent appeal for 32 pints of Type A Rh positive blood was made today by the Peninsula Memorial Blood Bank to provide all of the blood needed for the open heart surgery on the four Costello children of Santa Rosa scheduled for June 28 at Stanford Medical Center.

The patients, children of Mr. and Mrs. David Costello, are David, 17; Richard, 15; Kevin, 12; and Karyn, 4. The children all have an abnormal congenital heart defect known as an atrial septal defect.

All four will be operated on the same day, making it mandatory that the blood bank have a larger than normal supply of type A Rh positive blood on hand at that time.

The Peninsula Memorial Blood Bank is at 1791 El Camino Real, Burlingame, at the entrance to Peninsula Hospital. Appointments may be made by phoning 697-4034.
